HISTORICAL NOTE

The Mount Sinai Hospital was organized and incorporated in 1852 for "benevolent, charitable and scientific purposes." The work of the Hospital was begun in a small private dwelling on 28th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, which accommodated 28 patients. The Hospital now has accommodations for 686 patients, not including 18 beds in the receiving ward.

In 1871 the Hospital completed and occupied, at Lexington Avenue, 66th and 67th Streets, a building having a capacity of 200 beds.

The Dispensary, now known as the Out-Patient Department, was inaugurated in 1872.

The clinical departments first organized were those of medicine and surgery; a gynecologist was appointed in 1877.

Mount Sinai created precedents among the hospitals of New York by setting up a distinct pediatric service in 1878 and an otologic service in 1879; the latter was at first combined with, but in 1910 was separated from, ophthalmology and laryngology.

The Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses, in affiliation with the Hospital, was incorporated in March, 1881; the name of the school was changed in 1923 to The Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing.

In 1883 a committee was formed to develop a Medical Library.

In 1886 a district medical service was inaugurated.

Provision for the care of private patients was first made in 1886; an intermediate or "semi-private" ward was opened in 1904.

In 1893 a Pathological Department was established, and consultants in dermatology and neurology were appointed.

The corner stone of the group of ten hospital buildings occupying the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues, 100th and 101st Streets, was laid May 22nd, 1901; the buildings were completed and occupied March 15th, 1904, when 500 beds became available for the care of the sick.

A Department of Dietetics was established in 1905.

HISTORICAL NOTE

A Social Service Department was inaugurated in 1906.

A Tuberculosis Clinic was organized in 1908.

The first of a series of "Fellowship" funds was created in 1908 to assist investigators engaged in scientific medical work.

The Hospital's first X-ray machine was installed in 1900. In 1910 a full-fledged Department of Radiology was formed and in 1924 the department was subdivided into separate branches for (a) radiography and (b) X-ray and radium therapy.

In 1910 the three-story Out-Patient Building, which had been completed in 1904 was altered to a five-story building, and the Nurses' Home was enlarged from a six-story to an eight-story building. At the same time new isolation wards were erected on the roof of the Medical Building.

A Dental Department was established for the benefit of in-patients in 1910; this work was extended to the Out-Patient Department in 1925.

An orthopedic surgeon and a physio-therapist were named in 1911.

Roof wards for outdoor treatment were erected on the Medical and Surgical Pavilions in 1912.

The Hospital in 1912 accepted a fund "for the advancement of preventive medicine." A "health class" for children was promptly established.

In 1913 the erection of seven additional buildings south of 100th Street was begun; four of these buildings were occupied in 1915, and three, namely, the Private Pavilion, the Children's Pavilion and the Auditorium, were completed in the spring of 1922. With these additions, the Hospital was able to care for 654 patients.

The first of a series of lectureship funds was established in 1913. These funds provided honoraria for distinguished visiting lecturers.

Electro-cardiography was instituted in 1915.

In 1917, Mount Sinai Hospital became a constituent member of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, which was organized in that year.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Until 1917, tonsillectomies were performed in the Dispensary, often without anesthesia; in the year mentioned, a "tonsil and adenoid" ward, with a fully equipped operating room, was opened.

A Mount Sinai Hospital Unit, organized as a section of the Medical Department of the United States Army, was sent to France in 1918.

Post-Graduate medical instruction was formally organized in 1923, in affiliation with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

A permanent fund for the support of medical research was inaugurated in 1925, prior to which research was precariously supported by occasional donations.

The construction of a new school and residence building for the School of Nursing, fronting on 98th Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, was begun in 1925 and completed in 1927; the residence accommodates 490 nurses.

The new Semi-Private Pavilion for the care of patients of moderate means was completed and opened to the public in 1931.

A Consultation Service for ambulant out-patients of moderate means was organized in 1931.

The first step of the Out-Patient Department alteration was completed in 1931, when the former Nurses' Home was converted into an annex to the Out-Patient Department.

AIRPLANE VIEW—HOSPITAL BUILDINGS (SCHOOL OF NURSING IN INSERT)

FIFTH AVENUE FRONT SHOWING NEW SEMI-PRIVATE AND PRIVATE PAVILIONS

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In the past year the Hospital quite naturally has suffered greatly from the continued economic and financial depression.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of free patients, and a substantial decrease in that of Private Pavilion and paying ward patients with an accompanying important diminution of receipts. There was also quite an increase in the number of consultations in the Out-Patient Department.

The number of patients treated in the Hospital in 1931 was 12,659 against 12,179 in 1930; that of patients in the Private Pavilion 2,087, against 2,476, and that of consultations in the Out-Patient Department 236,234, against 222,489.

Substantial progress was made during the year putting into effect plans, decided upon more than ten years ago, for increasing utilization of the Hospital.

The new building for "patients of moderate means" was opened for inspection on November 18th and was placed in service on November 21st, when the patients of the semi-private wards of the main Hospital were transferred to the new quarters. At the present time two entire floors of the new building are occupied by this service and all the beds on these two floors are in constant use, thereby making it possible to treat twice the number of patients heretofore taken care of. Additional floors will be opened as soon as conditions warrant it.

The Consultation Pay Clinic was also inaugurated towards the end of November and is open for consultations three days each week. Only patients referred to the clinic by their own physicians are received, and, when their examination has been completed, they return to the care of their own doctors. Quite satisfactory use has been made of the clinic to date and it is hoped, that when the nature of the facilities offered becomes better known, an increasing number of cases will seek the service offered by the Hospital and its staff.

The consultation service is officered by Dr. George Baehr, Director, with Dr. Ernst P. Boas and Dr. Herman Mond as Associate Directors.

The new building also contains the new operating rooms which offer the greatly improved surgical facilities needed for so many years. All major operations with the exception of those in the eye service and those of the Private Pavilion service are now done in the new building.

✓ The change of the former Nurses' Home into an annex to the Out-Patient Department and quarters for the house staff was almost completed by the end of the year and is now being used for these purposes.

The enlargement of the Hospital made necessary an increase in the heating and light plant and a new 250 K.W. generator was installed, adding over sixty per cent. to the capacity of the central generating plant.

The consolidation of the Hospital's telephone, signaling and paging systems, and the installation of a new automatic dial telephone system were completed with an increased efficiency in these essential Hospital services.

In response to requests, telephones were installed in all of the rooms in the Private Pavilion. The ceilings of the corridors were treated with special acoustical material which absorbs much of the unavoidable noise created in these corridors by the traffic of the Hospital personnel and visitors. At the same time, the Pavilion was equipped for central radio reception, permitting patients a choice of two radio programs. To avoid annoyance to patients in the adjoining rooms, special radio pillows have been provided by means of which radio programs can be easily heard in bed with the ear resting on the pillow.

We take pleasure in reporting a further increase in the number of practicing physicians in attending Post Graduate Medical courses, 103 students having registered in 1931, compared with 97 in 1930.

Lectures were again given by distinguished physicians and scientists, including:

Professor Rudolph Krauss, Director of Sanitation, Chile, South America.

Privatdocent Rudolf Schoenheimer, Department of Pathological Chemistry, University of Freiburg, i. Br.

Dr. Henri Coutard, of the Curie Institute, Paris.

Dr. Elis Berven, of Radiumhemmet, Stockholm.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Professor I. Snapper, Professor of Internal Medicine, Amsterdam.

Dr. Harvey Cushing, Moseley Professor of Surgery, Harvard University, delivered the William Henry Welch lecture.

Sir Thomas Lewis, Physician of the University College Hospital, London, gave the Edward Gamaliel Janeway lectures.

Lectures were also delivered by the following, in connection with the Fourth Graduate Fortnight of the Academy of Medicine, in which Mount Sinai Hospital participated:

Professor Frank N. Wilson, Professor of Internal Medicine, University of Michigan.

Professor William S. Thayer, Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Leonard G. Rowntree, Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Alfred W. Adson, Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Maude W. Seymour Abbott, Montreal, Canada.

All enjoyed large attendance and were highly commended.

The expenditures for current purposes of the Hospital including the School of Nursing, the Social Service Department and the Ladies' Auxiliary in 1931 amounted to..... $1,694,784.37
Receipts applicable to current expenditures were..... 1,526,265.27

Leaving a deficit of..... $168,519.10

Included in above receipts are the following:

From Federation for the Mount Sinai Hospital Group $411,917.22
From the United Hospital Fund..... 47,695.85
From the City of New York..... 100,086.19

The fear in regard to the financial position of the Hospital expressed in the last Annual Report has unfortunately proven correct and the deficit of over $168,000 is of a very disturbing nature, particularly as there is no indication that 1932 will show a more favorable result.

We were forced by existing conditions reluctantly to reduce the salaries and wages of practically every one connected with the institution. These reductions were accepted in the most cooperative spirit, and it is our earnest hope that before long we will be able gradually to restore the compensations formerly paid, which were in no case excessive.

Federation closed the year 1931 with a deficit of about $330,000, compelling it to use up practically all of its available reserve funds. It is therefore confronted with the necessity of cutting down very considerably its allotments to the constituent societies for 1932. That Federation has been able to accomplish as much as it did was due to the indefatigable efforts of its officers; the chairman of its Campaign Committee, Mr. Paul Block; the head of its Business Men's Council, Mr. S. D. Leidesdorf, and their associates. The community owes these gentlemen and ladies a debt of gratitude far greater than our words can express.

The collections of the United Hospital Fund were, of course, greatly affected by the depression and we received from it a somewhat smaller amount than in previous years. We again urge all friends of the poor sick to stand by the United Hospital Fund, thereby enabling it to continue the great work to which its energies are being devoted.

Our receipts from the City of New York were somewhat in excess of those of the previous year.

The following appointments have been made on the Medical staff:

Dr. Charles C. Lieb, Consultant in Pharmacology
Dr. Francis W. O'Connor, Consultant in Tropical Diseases
Dr. Joseph H. Globus, Associate Neurologist
Dr. Isadore Goldstein, Associate in Ophthalmo-Pathology
Dr. Irving B. Goldman, Adjunct Laryngologist
Dr. Harry Rosenwasser, Adjunct Otologist
Dr. Moses Swick, Adjunct Surgeon
Drs. Nathan Savitsky and Herman G. Selinsky, Adjunct Neurologists.

Dr. Isador Abrahamson, Associate Neurologist, and Dr. Moses Keshner, Adjunct Neurologist, resigned their positions after twenty-nine and twelve years of service respectively, during all of which period they have given unstintedly of their time and talent to the service of the Hospital. We are most grateful to them for the services rendered to the institution.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

We regretfully record the death of Dr. Emil Mayer who has been connected with the Hospital for twenty-eight years, the last fourteen of which he served as Consulting Laryngologist. Dr. Mayer's service as Attending Laryngologist contributed much to make this department one of outstanding efficiency.

As in the previous year, the Hospital staff played a major role in the Graduate Fortnight of the Academy of Medicine. One of the most valuable features of the program was the Scientific Exhibit over which Dr. Louis Gross, the Director of the Hospital's Laboratories, and Dr. Herman Mond, Adjunct Physician, presided as Directors. The staff of Mount Sinai displayed a large and valuable collection of specimens at the Exhibit and gave a number of lectures to the visiting physicians. Very flattering recognition of the contributions of Mount Sinai Hospital and its staff was received from the officers of the Academy of Medicine.

The Pathological Conferences continued to attract a large attendance at their weekly Wednesday meetings.

The following Trustees were re-elected for the term expiring March 1st, 1938:

Nelson I. Asiel	Dr. S. S. Goldwater
George Blumenthal	Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman
Walter W. Naumburg

Mr. Paul M. Rosenthal was elected to fill a vacancy on the Board.

Pressure of business compelled Mr. Benedict Erstein to decline reelection as a Trustee. Mr. Erstein's connection with the institution covered a period of twelve years when he rendered that valuable service which was better appreciated by his colleagues, who will miss his presence in their midst.

We record the following benefactions:

We are genuinely grateful to those who have been so generous to our institution and appeal again to all interested in our work to help us as much as possible in our difficult task, and thereby place us in a position to continue the activities of the Hospital on the present scale, which is not above, but still far below the needs of the community.

The deficit of the last two years has made very serious inroads on our scant capital fund and a considerable further diminution is in prospect this year. Unless some large gifts are received within the next few years the financial outlook of the institution is fraught with great danger for the continued full use of the Hospital's facilities, not to speak of the impossibility of extending departments which should be equipped for additional service.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The activities of the Medical Staff, both clinical and scientific, the School of Nursing, the Social Service Department, the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Out-Patient Department are fully set forth in the statements embodied in this report.

It is our pleasant duty to express our thanks to the managers of and workers in all these departments, as well as to the officers and the members of the Executive staff of the Hospital for the remarkably efficient service given during the past year.

We also wish to express our appreciation for cooperation and valuable service rendered by Mr. Mason, of Messrs. Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson, in legal matters; to Mr. Alfred Lowenthal for his volunteer service as photographer, and to the N. Y. City authorities for their unfailing courtesy and helpfulness in their relations with our institution.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,

President.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF PAUL M. WARBURG

The Trustees of The Mount Sinai Hospital have learned with deep regret of the passing away of Mr. Paul M. Warburg, who was a Trustee of the Institution from 1904 to 1914, and who had at all times shown himself to be a real friend of The Mount Sinai Hospital.

Mr. Warburg was an outstanding figure in the financial world as well as in the field of philanthropy, and he leaves behind him many achievements as monuments to his ability. He endeared himself to all who knew him, both in a business and social way by his innate modesty, his charming manner, his keen intelligence and his rare understanding.

It was resolved to express to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy upon the great loss which they have sustained, and in recognition of his services that the flag of the Hospital be flown at half-mast, and an engrossed copy of these resolutions be sent to the members of his family.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

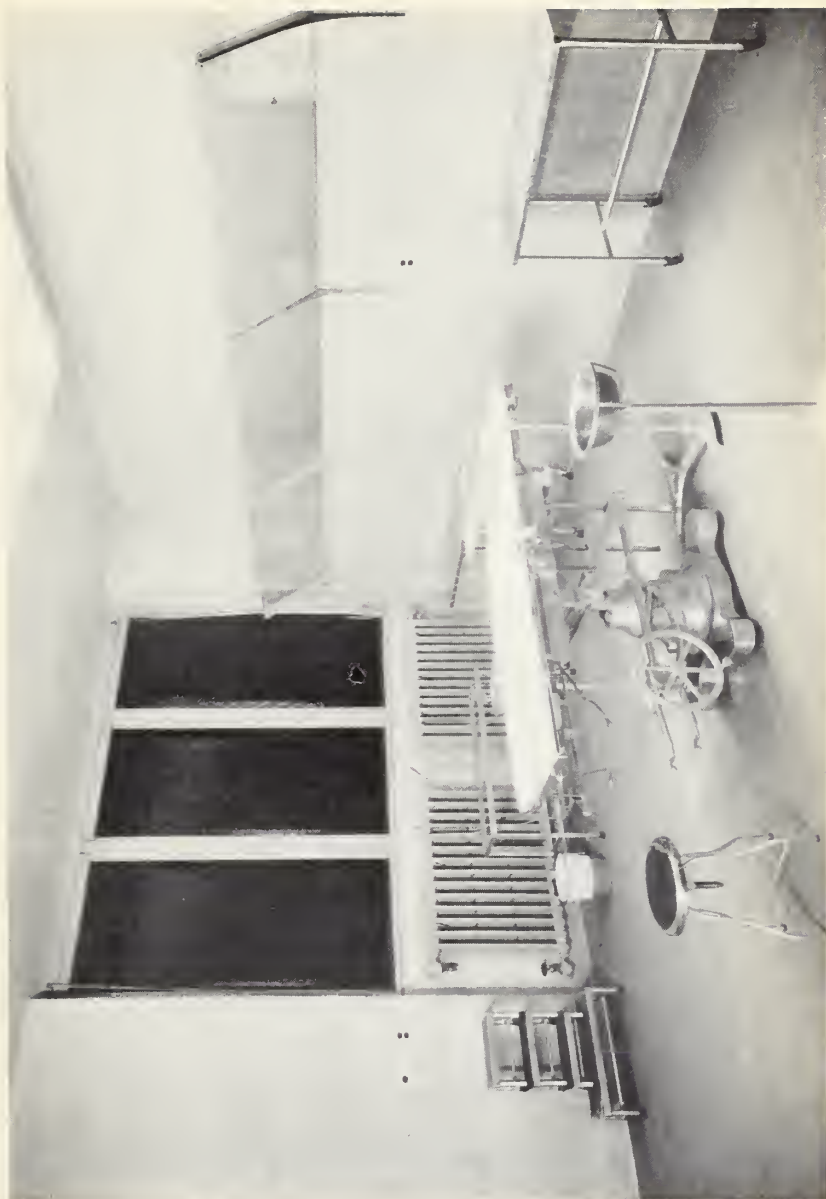

ARTHUR H. HARLOW,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE MEDICAL STAFF FOR THE YEAR 1931

In a recent communication, the President of the Hospital called attention to the fact that during the economic and financial depression "there has been a considerable increase in the number of free patients and an increase in the number of consultations in the Out-Patient Department." In no regard has there been any diminution in the clinical activity of the Staff during the past year.

LECTURES: Among the many lectures of general medical interest delivered during 1931, were the following:

1. The William Henry Welch Lecture, by Dr. Harvey Cushing, Moseley Professor of Surgery, Harvard University, on "The Posterior Pituitary Hormone and the Parasympathetic Nervous System."
2. Professor Rudolph Krauss, Director of Sanitation, Chile, South America, on "Brill's Disease and the Weil-Felix Reaction."
3. Dr. Elis Berven of Radiumhemmet, Stockholm, on "The Treatment of Malignant Disease."
4. Dr. Henri Coutard of the Curie Institute, Paris, on "Roentgen Diagnosis of Tumors of the Base of the Tongue and of the Pharynx, Hypopharynx and Larynx."
5. Delivered during Graduate Fortnight:
A number given by our own men. Also by Dr. Frank N. Wilson, University of Michigan, on "The Distribution of the Action Currents of the Heart."
Dr. Leonard G. Rowntree, Mayo Clinic, on "The Relation of the Circulation to Functional Efficiency."
Dr. Alfred W. Adson, Mayo Clinic, on "The Surgical Treatment of Raynaud's Disease."
6. The Edward Gamaliel Janeway Lectures, by Sir Thomas Lewis, Physician of the University College Hospital, London, on—
 - (a) "Ischemic Paralysis."
 - (b) "A Clinical Demonstration on Thrombo-Angiitis Obliterans."
7. Professor I. Snapper, Professor of International Medicine, Amsterdam, on "Practical Value and Theoretical Explanation of Erythrocyte Sedimentation."

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

THE LABORATORIES: An extensive report of the Laboratories is published elsewhere in this book, but there are two points with regard to the Laboratories that I believe are worthwhile mentioning here.

In the report of last year a marked increase in the activity in this department was stressed. Attention was also called to the fact that every clinical department of the Hospital is represented in the Laboratories and the staff of the various clinical departments is actively engaged in laboratory work.

The Laboratories are an exceedingly important, and I might say, essential part of the clinical activity of the Hospital. As a matter of fact, although grouped separately, the Laboratories and the clinical departments are really united. It is a source of increasing satisfaction to see, particularly the younger men on the staff of the Hospital actively engaged in laboratory work. This situation should be fostered and increasing facilities should be supplied. It is of particular importance that the young men appointed to the Junior positions, either in the Out-Patient Department or in the Hospital, should carry on work in the fundamental branches of medicine, and to this end their activity in the Laboratories should be encouraged.

So far as the Hospital is concerned, training in the Laboratories for men who ultimately engage in the clinical care of patients is of considerable advantage. First, it redounds to the better care of patients in our charge. Secondly, it presents to the Hospital a broader field for choice of men who are ultimately appointed to advanced clinical positions, and finally, graduates of the Hospital so trained can offer better care to the sick in the community.

Recognition is being given to the fact that training in the fundamental laboratory branches is one of the essentials of a broad medical education, and one that serves, perhaps more than any other, to enable the clinician to develop beyond mediocrity.

Thus, the Committee on Classification of Fellows of the New York Academy of Medicine has stated the following qualifications. In addition to the requirements for "membership" in the Academy, it is required of a "Fellow" that "he shall have had an approved residency or special internship of a minimum of two years duration with satisfactory amount of basic science work. The Advisory Committee of the Section on Neurology and Psychiatry has interpreted "satisfactory amount of basic science work" as one year of full time experience or its equivalent in neuro-anatomy and neuro-pathology.

The value and the importance of such training is being generally recognized, and it is gratifying to know that The Mount Sinai Hospital is offering the facilities for this training to its young men.

CONSULTATION SERVICE: Perhaps the most significant expansion in the Hospital's activities during the past year was the inauguration of a Consultation Service for patients of moderate means. In many of its essential details, it differs from anything of this kind which has heretofore been attempted. It is equivalent to placing the physical and professional facilities of our Hospital at the disposal of the physicians of the community for patients with obscure and complicated illnesses requiring multiple specialist consultations and laboratory examinations which they otherwise could not afford. Patients are accepted only if referred by their family physician. Upon completion of the diagnostic study, the patient is returned to his physician, who receives a complete report of the findings together with detailed recommendations for future therapy.

The success of this project during the first six months has been beyond all expectations. More than five hundred patients have already been subjected to searching diagnostic investigations in which about half the members of the visiting staff of the Hospital participated. Through the Consultation Service, the Hospital is making new contacts with hundreds of physicians in the community and is thereby expending its professional and scientific influence upon the practice of medicine outside its walls.

This cooperative effort of the Medical Staff has been generously supported by the Trustees of the Hospital. It is in the nature of an experiment designed primarily to assist and improve the practice of medicine among that class of patients who can afford to retain a family physician, but who cannot afford the unlimited professional and laboratory facilities which are required for the solution of obscure and complicated illnesses. It is therefore a practical attempt to solve the problem of the cost of medical care among this large but previously neglected portion of the community. If the project should capture the imagination of the physicians of the community and prove to be permanently successful, it will undoubtedly be widely imitated throughout the United States.

The group studies instituted a number of years ago and participated in by the physicians and surgeons of the staff have continued. Thyroid cases have been studied carefully on the medical service and followed after operation so that their subsequent course has been observed. In this way it is expected that the indications for surgical intervention in thyroid disease will be determined and that the results of operative treatment will constantly improve.

The result of a year's group study of abscess of the lung can now be evaluated. Work has been done on the etiology, pathology, bacteriology, evolution, diagnosis and the surgical treatment of this disease. Its cause has been established and important diagnostic criteria have been developed. Definite advances have been made in the surgical treatment of lung abscess and its complications.

The doubt which existed several years ago as to whether neuro-surgical material would continue to come to the Hospital has now been dispelled. There can now no longer be any question that neuro-surgery constitutes a special field of surgery, and since work in this specialty has increased at The Mount Sinai Hospital, it is appropriate to consider the establishment of a special service.

During the year there has been increasing information on the value of the newer methods of the visualization of the urinary tract with various drugs administered intravenously, orally, and rectally. A study has also been made of the control of obstruction in the prostatic urethra and neck of the bladder by the cystoscopic high frequency current cutting method.

Studies of various interesting groups of cases by different members of the gynecological staff have been made during the year, and are now ready for publication. The research laboratory has broadened its field of investigation and studies are being continued of the endocrine factors controlling the female sex cycle. Among other things, it has shown that the many endocrine preparations so largely employed by the profession have proven of little value in cases carefully controlled.

The higher quality of the work of the Dermatological Service is attributed directly to the establishment of a separate dermatopathological department. Investigations are being made on the use of snake venom in the treatment of purpura of various types as well as studies of its value in the treatment of urticaria and eczema.

In the Ophthalmological Department new operative methods have been devised, and attempts have been made to produce moving pictures of eye operations and a further effort at improving technic is being made. The collection of interesting intra-ocular photographs and slides of unusual pathological specimens has been increased. Much pathological material has been studied.

On the Laryngological Service treatment of malignant diseases of the nose and throat by means of radiotherapy and electro-surgery has been undertaken in cooperation with the Department of Radiotherapy. Also the technic of one stage laryngectomy under local anesthesia has been worked out satisfactorily.

On the Otological Department there has been a considerable increase in the clinical work during the year. Numerous publications based upon investigations in the pathological laboratory have been made.

RADIOLOGY AND RADIOTHERAPY: The steady increase in the number of patients radiographed in the Department of Radiology since its advent is still in evidence. The increase has been chiefly in examinations made on ward cases. The Consultation Service has added materially to the number of patients examined.

Significant advances in the study of the anatomy of the lung and bronchi have been made, particularly in its application to the study of lung abscess and bronchiectasis. Clinical pathological studies of the heart in conjunction with X-ray findings have been the subject of several articles and exhibits.

The Radiotherapy Department has also shown a moderate increase in the number of patients treated. The number of patients treated by radium decreased slightly. This was due to a change in technic, some patients having been treated by X-ray rather than by a combination of radium and X-ray. In July, 1931, a new X-ray therapy unit was installed which has made it possible to give the treatments with greater comfort to patients and with greater ease of administration.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

During the past year more patients suffering from oral and laryngeal carcinoma have been treated by heavily filtered X-ray (Coutard) with gratifying results. Members of this Department have been carrying on the routine work and in cooperation with members of various clinical departments have followed the clinical response of both benign and malignant conditions to radiation therapy.

ISIDORE FRIESNER, M.D.,
President of the Medical Board.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

No report of the Out-Patient Department activities for the year 1931 can be made without reference to the effects which economic conditions of the past year have had upon clinic attendance and clinic receipts. The drop in income, as shown elsewhere in the Treasurer's Report, is but one mirror reflecting the wide unemployment and distressing economic insecurity of the clientele served by the Out-Patient Department. Another sign is the increase in applications for admission by patients unaccustomed to clinic care, who presented themselves for the first time, and in the past had been able to afford private medical care.

The clinics whose overcrowding was mentioned in our report registered a new high total of 236,234 visits, as compared to 222,489 in 1930. This six per cent. increase is only partly paralleled by the number of new patients, which increased from 44,548 to 45,787, less than three per cent. These totals do not include visits to the X-ray, radiotherapy, electrocardiograph and basal metabolism departments or the Children's Health Class, which are reported elsewhere. Ten years ago, the Out-Patient Department was considered functioning at full capacity, with a total of 187,883 visits; an increase of more than twenty-five per cent. has taken place in a decade without new facilities. It is not likely that the patients, except for the noticeable mental accompaniments, presented any different types of illnesses to account for the disproportion in the increase of the total consultations as against new cases. Presumably, patients, through lack of employment, were able to keep appointments for subsequent treatments with greater regularity than in the days when return to employment prompted some patients not to make final or follow-up visits. With few exceptions, all of the clinics experienced an increased demand for service. Most increases were registered in the tuberculosis, the adults' and children's asthma, genito-urinary, orthopedic (following the infantile paralysis epidemic) and the medical clinics.

The clinics were open for 303 days, both morning and afternoon, with a daily average attendance of 778. The maximum number of consultations for any one day reached 1,095; too many for comfortable and proper care with the present facilities. The admitting registrars found it increasingly difficult to reject patients after the daily quota had been filled, but with the willing cooperation and help of the large body of loyal physicians serving the clinics, many extra hours were given to this service for those in need. In spite of this extra effort, it is estimated that every day from fifty to a hundred patients could not be admitted because of lack of space. Apart from the regular staff of clerks, orderlies and domestics, these patients were cared for by a daily average of 105 physicians, 22 nurses and 20 volunteer aids, to whom the committee is deeply grateful for their valuable aid.

The activities of the Diabetic Clinic were directed in part toward the investigation of the arteriosclerotic manifestations of diabetes. Studies were made of oscillometric readings, blood pressure and urinary findings and the fundus findings of each patient as a parallel to the carbohydrate metabolism. The continued increase in the use and cost of insulin in the Hospital prompted a survey of the insulin problem, in an effort to adopt a rational policy with regard to insulin therapy, which would meet the patient's needs for this type of therapy without waste of the Hospital's funds in the purchase of this drug. As a result of the survey the following facts were elicited.

Insulin was used only for those patients whose urine could not be kept free of sugar and acetone bodies on a diet adequate for the individual's nutritional needs. A persistent high blood sugar level was not in itself considered a criterion for insulin therapy. The insulin dosage and diet were regulated so that an adequate diet no longer resulted in glycosuria. After the diabetic condition had been brought under control, an effort was made to reduce the insulin dosage in each individual case according to clinical and laboratory indications.

Possibility of omission or substantial reduction of insulin dosage: Omission of insulin or substantial reduction is indicated for 29 patients (22%); taking a daily total of 646 units (U20); which is approximately 10.7% of the total 6029 units used daily in this clinic.

The above data indicated that insulin had been used only for patients whose glycosuria could not otherwise be controlled with an adequate diet, and showed the beneficial effects of insulin therapy. Study of each individual case showed that the use of insulin could be reduced in very few patients. In the majority, any substantial insulin reduction would have soon resulted in the return of the previous status. With an estimate of approximately 250 new patients admitted each year to the Adult Diabetic Clinic, it is obvious that the insulin requirements for this new group will increase as long as the present liberal policy on admission of insulin patients is continued.

The clinic organization provides for the close correlation of the Clinical, Laboratory, Dietetic and Social Service Departments and for the individual treatment of each patient. The appointment system is adhered to strictly and each patient is always seen by the same doctor. The personnel of the clinical staff is an exceptionally constant one all of the clinical assistants having held their positions from three to six years. Each patient is assured of competent treatment. Present economic conditions have added to the difficulties of diabetic treatment. The patients have difficulty in purchasing even the cheapest vegetables that form the basis of their diet, and the tendency of a bread eating race to revert to that cheap food is today a serious problem. It has not been possible to have many cooking classes and demonstrations during clinic hours because of the lack of space. With the increase in dispensary facilities in the future, this difficulty will be overcome and tentative plans have been made with the Dietetic and Social Service Departments for the more thorough education and instruction of our patients in the problem of diabetes in the future.

The work of the Tuberculosis Clinic was in the main along the same lines as in previous years. The number of patients visiting the clinic increased over the previous year. The rise in attendance was especially noticeable among children, particularly those of the Porto Rican race, who show a larger incidence of the disease compared to children of other races. A relatively larger number of cases of clinical pulmonary tuberculosis were observed in these children.

Difficulty was experienced again in securing hospital placement for these patients, due to the presence of a very large waiting list at the Hospital Admission Bureau. As the City hospitals could not provide a sufficient number of beds to take care of the indigent tuberculous patients, many patients were urged to return to Porto Rico, but the number who did so was very small, the general attitude being that they preferred to stay in New York rather than go back to Porto Rico, where economic conditions were worse. The types of tuberculosis seen in these patients are rather acute, and attended by fever and rapid spreading of the disease, emphasizing the importance of early hospitalization. These people show little earning power; it is not uncommon to find two or three families living in one apartment, creating an environment favorable for the spread of the infection both to the older people and children with whom they live.

With the close of the year the Tuberculosis Clinic was for the time being discontinued, as alterations interfered with its operation. All of the patients registered in this clinic were transferred to Board of Health clinics in their respective districts.

The Gastro-Intestinal Clinic continued a number of the studies previously reported and initiated some new problems. These projects, which are apart from the routine care of the patient, included:

1. The introduction of a new method of treating cardiospasm with Hurst's Mercury weighted tube.
2. Studies in gastric secretion after partial gastrectomy for ulcer.
3. Studies of the mechanism of hyperchlorhydria in peptic ulcer, with special reference to the role of the vagus nerve.
4. The effect of mucin on gastric secretion.
5. An organized study of true achlorhydria unassociated with any known organic disease (using combined neutral red and histamine).
6. Studies of pain in peptic ulcer (percussion test, Palmer test, and sensitiveness to pain).
7. A study of post-cholecystectomy symptoms.
8. A careful study with follow-up of the injection treatment of internal hemorrhoids.

The work of the Cardiac Clinic was complicated by the increase in the number of social problems associated with cardiac diseases; these problems are discussed more fully in the report of the Committee on Social Service. From a purely clinical point of view, the work of the physicians of the clinic continued along the lines previously laid down. Scientific investigation during the year included studies on "The Effect of Calcium on Auricular Fibrillation with Special Reference to its Influence on Digitalis Requirement," and studies were made on "The Effect of Digitalis on Sinus Tachycardias" and on "The Development of Tests for Functional Capacity in Heart Disease."

Since its establishment several years ago, the Hematology Clinic has studied intensively the course and treatment of diseases of the blood, spleen and lymph nodes. More than 500 cases have been observed and practically every disease so far known in the realm of hematology has been seen in this clinic. The clinic physicians cooperated with the radiotherapist of the Hospital in the study of cases of leukemia and diseases of the lymph nodes receiving X-ray therapy. A large number of observations were made on patients suffering from pernicious anemia, among whom it has been noticed that the absorption of liver in old standing cases was not very good. With the cooperation of a commercial laboratory, which donated the material, extracts for intramuscular use were tried with good results. Patients whose hemoglobin could not be raised above sixty-five per cent. have responded under this treatment. In hemorrhagic diseases injections with snake venom have shown promising results. Encouraging observations have been made following the use of this form of treatment in cases of secondary anemia associated with menorrhagia.

In the Asthma Clinic studies of allergic phenomena were carried out along with the routine care of patients. One of the investigations involved the absorption of normal saline in allergic individuals after intradermal injections, another dealt with the effect of testicular extract on the absorption of proteins in the treatment of pollen diseases. Members of the clinic staff delivered addresses before the American Association for the Study of Allergy; the American Medical Association in Philadelphia, and the Association for the Study of Asthma and Allied Conditions, in Atlantic City. These addresses, as well as papers dealing with "Infectious Asthma in Relationship to Sinus and Pulmonary Disease," on "Recurring Winter Cough," and on the "Association of Arthritis to Infectious Asthma," have been published or accepted for publication.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

The Children's Health Class instituted another plan for child care through the utilization of adolescent female patients, who have risen above their difficulties, for assistance in guiding younger children. The progress of the work has been satisfactory, and the clinic is being utilized more and more by teaching institutions in the education of students in psychology, nursing, medicine and the like. A number of publications by members of the staff have been published in scientific and sociological journals.

The Poliomyelitis Clinic, was reopened in November, to take care of the emergency needs created by the poliomyelitis epidemic of last summer and fall. Although the number of cases paralyzed was large, the recovery has been prompt and more complete than in the great epidemic of 1916.

Of the cases treated in the clinic, half had no residual or very slight paralysis; a fourth were paralyzed more severely but responded to treatment so that they are now in the group of slight paralysis, and a fourth were severely paralyzed and required braces and intensive treatment. The mothers of the patients received instruction in necessary home therapy from one of the trained workers of the Physiotherapy Department working under the direct supervision of the orthopedic staff. In the regular Orthopedic Clinic there was noted a marked increase in the number of patients unable to pay for necessary appliances.

Because of limited space the main efforts of the Genito-Urinary Clinics were directed along diagnostic lines. This provided a very fertile source of patients for admission to the Hospital service.

While several hundred cases were referred to the Hospital for surgical intervention, all of them could not be admitted, due to lack of available beds. Liaison with the Hospital service was continued by means of the weekly follow-up clinic.

The special morning clinics in the Gynecological Out-Patient Department continued to provide opportunities for the study of special groups of cases, affording special treatment to patients and giving opportunities to the staff to follow ambulant and post-hospital conditions of interest. The afternoon clinics were regular feeders to the Hospital service and were of additional help in giving the occasional post-operative treatment needed by patients who had no family physician.

Routine work in the Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic was improved by the appointment of two adjuncts and the assignment of two men of adjunct rank daily to the Out-Patient Department service.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

New experimental work in the use of electric modalities in the non-surgical treatment of nose and throat conditions was begun.

In addition to caring for the clinic patients, the staff of the Eye Clinic prepared papers on "Niemann Pick's Disease with Cherry-Red spots in Macula," "Rosette Formation in Eyes of Irradiated Human Embryos," "Metastasis in Sheath of Optic Nerve from Carcinoma of Stomach," and "Nonspecific Protein Therapy; Advantages of Coley's Mixed Toxins." The clinical data on which these papers were based were obtained in the clinic. Clinical experimental work was also carried out on the therapeutic value of Vitamin A in cases of retinitis pigmentosa and in changes in the eye in diabetes, in collaboration with the staff of the Adult and Children's Diabetic Clinics.

It is impossible to report on all clinics in this report and the others, though not specifically mentioned, carried on a type of routine and investigative work, which was creditable to their respective staffs and helpful to its beneficiaries.

The past year saw the Hospital's Out-Patient Department alteration program move considerably nearer to completion. In the early part of the year contracts were let for the alteration of the former Nurses's Home, and the close of the year found this alteration completed and most of the equipment in place. The opening in 1932 of the lower floors of this building as an Annex for Out-Patient Department and Social Service purposes, will afford some relief to the present crowded condition, although the full benefits of these changes will not be felt until the present Dispensary Building is altered, in accordance with the plans now in preparation.

Post-graduate instruction in the Hospital was carried on more extensively than before. In this the Out-Patient Department played a large role with more clinics participating in offering courses in which nearly 100 post-graduate students were registered. Post-graduate extra-curricular courses were in greater demand than before.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNST ROSENFELD,

Chairman, Committee on Out-Patient Department.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON LABORATORIES

In the 1930 report of the Committee on Laboratories it was pointed out that the Laboratory staff, working conjointly with several clinical services, had undertaken a number of investigations of mutual interest. The year 1931 has seen a continuance of this arrangement, with the result that a number of publications have appeared which bear the stamp of this cooperative effort.

In an examination of the seventy-eight problems brought to a completion during the year 1931 (forty-five published; thirty-three in the hands of publishers) it is seen that eight out of the twelve, which might be considered more important investigations of the year, represent a joint effort. These results are reflected in the following:

1. It was found that a certain snake venom possessed a peculiar property which made its use possible in a number of diseases in which bleeding was a prominent feature. Injections of the venom in a certain manner produced satisfactory remissions in such conditions as hemophilia, thrombocytopenic purpura and functional uterine bleeding, where other therapeutic methods have proved futile. The future will tell whether the results are temporary or permanent, but in either event advance has been made.

2. An innocuous and relatively inexpensive drug has been developed which, given by mouth, permits the X-ray visualization of the urinary tract. This is an important advance over the use of similar substances by injection into a vein, and hence will be particularly helpful in children.

3. Following the report from Brussels of the successful elicitation of the Shwartzman phenomenon in certain tumors of guinea pigs, it was found possible to produce necrosis in tumors of mice inoculated with Crocker Sarcoma, No. 180, a growth which is practically invariably fatal for these animals. The discovery that it is possible to produce necrosis and, in a number of mice, complete disappearance of this very malignant tumor, places within the hands of the laboratory worker a new method of attack on the tumor problem.

4. Particularly during the past decade, many unsuccessful attempts have been made to obtain an innocuous antiseptic which, taken by mouth, would find its way into the gall bladder, with the object of treating bacterial diseases of this organ. The use of such a drug would hold out the hope of reducing the number of operations performed for the treatment of this disease. A drug has been obtained which, in experiments on dogs and rabbits, has all the necessary attributes and may prove to be effective in the human subject.

5. Thrombo-angiitis obliterans is a disease of the extremities which leads to amputation in sixty-five per cent. of its victims during the first five years of the illness. Because of the long period of time during which the patients are bedridden and therefore out of work, the families of many of the afflicted are subjected to additional misery. A course of treatment for this disease has been instituted which has not only reduced the incidence of amputation over a similar period to eight per cent., but has cut down the period of disease to so short a time that the social factors introduced by the patient's inability to work have been simplified. A series of papers have been written on studies carried out on the nature of this disease.

6. A series of investigations has been made by workers in the Chemistry Laboratory, on the properties of certain peculiar bile acids which, it is believed, carry with them findings of value concerning the chemistry of cell life, as well as immunological phenomena.

7. In 1922, a member of the staff of the Hospital described a new disease which, although comparatively rare, is of such grave prognostic import that its clinical recognition is a matter of great importance. The pathogenesis of this disease, in which an innocently regarded affection of the skin is associated with serious disease of the kidneys and of the heart valves, has been studied intensively by workers of the laboratory and a beginning is now being reached of an understanding of the mechanisms that are involved. The contributions on this disease have been peculiarly the property of The Mount Sinai Hospital, since it was here that the disease was recognized and intensively studied.

8. Studies have been carried out on the respiration of certain disease-producing germs which play a prominent etiological role in pneumonia. These studies have shown that these organisms have individual characteristics which might serve to explain their virulence and pathogenicity for man.

9. In the Neuropathology Laboratory, workers have developed a new conception with regard to certain important tumors of the mid-brain, whereby it becomes increasingly possible for the physician to recognize them and, in many cases, submit them to curative surgical procedure. If looked at from this point of view, the diagnosis of these tumors may be considered a life-saving procedure.

10. A series of investigations have been carried out on the anatomical, pathological, bacteriological and clinical aspects of lung abscess which should prove of value. The report on results of this work constituted the major part of the program of the conference of the Eastern Roentgenological Society, held in the Blumenthal Auditorium several months ago.

11. The workers in the Endocrinology Laboratory have added to our knowledge of the female sex hormone and have discovered new methods of isolating these substances from the blood.

12. Additional evidence has been produced on the nature of the formation of those valvular lesions which eventually lead to heart failure. It is hoped that the clarification of the mechanisms involved in the production of these lesions, may eventually form the basis of a new structure upon which to build a rational procedure in the treatment of these diseases.

The items listed above have been selected for comment from many because of their immediate interest to physician and layman. However, a great many other publications dealing with surgical-pathological and morbid-anatomical investigations, on neuro-pathological disease entities and on serological, physiological, chemical and bacteriological phenomena, help to make this a year of gratifying productiveness.

The number of routine laboratory examinations have increased appreciably, because of the current demand for more varied laboratory diagnostic tests and because of the opening and enlargement of new Hospital clinical activities.

* Does not include examinations made within individual clinics.

The number of post-mortem examinations performed per annum has shown an advance in the past few years. In spite of these increased activities with their greater demand on supplies and equipment, and in spite of the increased cost of many of the laboratory supplies, due to the increased tariff on these items, a reorganization of the laboratory staff, together with a very strict and closely checked method of purchasing and distribution, has made it possible to reduce expenses in the routine department.

The Laboratory staff has not stopped at this, but is continuing every possible effort to instil into the workers the spirit of pain-taking economy. Detailed studies of costs are being continually made and every possible measure calculated to effect economies is adopted. As examples may be mentioned: the substitution of horse meat and discarded vegetable tops for more expensive animal fodder; the substitution, where possible, of metal apparatus for that previously made of glass; the use of unground microscopic slides where they may be substituted for the more expensive polished variety; the substitution of horse blood, for the more expensive human blood used in the preparation of media; the use of discarded animals for preliminary experiments as well as for the Ascheim Zondek test, etc.

The teaching program of the laboratories has been continued in the post-graduate courses, in the clinical-pathological conferences open to the medical profession, in numerous lectures which have been given by staff members in various institutions, and in the appointment of many workers in the various laboratory subdivisions where they receive an intensive training.

During the past two years, five men trained in our institution have received appointments as pathologists in various hospitals in the city. Two other men are at present being trained for such positions.

During the year the laboratories housed one hundred and fifty workers, one hundred of whom were physicians.

The Hospital was again honored in having its Director of Laboratories appointed Director of the Fourth Annual Graduate Fortnight at the New York Academy of Medicine. This year the Fortnight was particularly well represented with contributions from the members of The Mount Sinai Hospital staff.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON LABORATORIES

The following improvements in laboratory organization and procedure have been instituted within the past year:

1. The appointment of a clinical microscopist who has already made her presence felt in the improvement of clinical microscopy throughout the Hospital.
2. The rotation of voluntary assistants and fellows through the different subdivisions of the laboratory in order to broaden their training.
3. The institution of daily reports on the spontaneous mortality of animals and on the temperature records of the animal house. This enabled us to effect appreciable economies.
4. The institution of monthly reports on purchases and inter-departmental distribution of supplies.
5. The introduction of the cholesterol ester partition method for the study of liver function.
6. The introduction of the Loewenstein, Kendall and Nitrite procedures in bacteriology.

The report presented herewith represents achievements made in the face of limited space and funds. There is great need for additional facilities and for an adequate endowment in order that the unique opportunities existing here may be used to the full advantage of humanity.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE B. BERNHEIM,

Chairman, Committee on Laboratories.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON DIETETICS

In the 1930 report of the Committee on Dietetics, mention was made of the plan of bringing the Private Pavilion kitchen under the direction of the Hospital's Supervising Dietitian, Miss Wood. It is of interest to report at this time that the change was most beneficial in every way. It resulted in a more efficient distribution of employees and also a correlation of the menus throughout the entire Hospital, thus doing away with any waste there may have been in planning menus for an entirely separate unit.

For several years the committee had been desirous of introducing a new plan for serving the food in the Private Pavilion, which after careful study has been introduced without any additional expense to the Hospital. Formerly the Private Pavilion menus were made up with very little choice to suite the tastes of the individual. There were many requests for "special" food at each meal which could not be ignored, and which were most difficult to handle. Now from the wide choice of food, which practically amounts to an "a la carte" service, both the very sick and the convalescent patient is able to make a selection which will appeal to him.

In December, the new Semi-Private Pavilion was opened. The food served to these patients has been of the same quality as that provided in the Private Pavilion, but not so wide a choice has been given as to the full paying Private Pavilion patients. The food for the new pavilion is prepared in the main kitchen of the Hospital and transferred by means of modern electrically heated trucks to the respective floor pantries, the nurse in charge serving it directly from the trucks to the patients' trays.

Because of the continued downward trend in commodity prices, raw foods have been bought practically from day to day, with an eye to market conditions. Patients and personnel have derived the greatest benefit by supplying fresh fruits and vegetables in larger quantities, because of favorable market prices. Canned goods have been used in smaller quantities and then only when seasonal fluctuations in price have made the use of fresh commodities too costly. The use of fresh vegetables and fruits as far as possible in place of canned goods is, of course, the goal of all dietetic endeavors.

Respectfully submitted,

GLADYS GUGGENHEIM STRAUS,

Chairman, Committee on Dietetics.

REPORT OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL SCHOOL OF NURSING

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:
Gentlemen:

During the past year, two groups of preliminary students were admitted to the school; the February division of 61, and the September division of 102; a total of 163. One hundred and seven of that number have thus far survived the more or less strenuous requirements of the first year of training. One of the things difficult of prediction in a school of nursing, is the proportion of students entering each class that may reasonably be expected to complete the three years of training, but more and more we find that from sixty to sixty-five per cent. do so in this school. It is interesting to note that this figure is in accord with averages published by the States of New York and California, and somewhat higher than that of Ohio.

On January 1st, 1932, the school had a total of 343 students, divided as follows:

First year	118
Second year	107
Third year	118
Total,	343

We also have a total of 76 graduate nurses in all Hospital departments.

Never in the history of the school has there been a year when such a wealth of well-prepared student nurse candidates were available. Approximately five thousand letters of inquiry and application for admission were received during the past year. It has been difficult to make a judicious selection from the large number of applicants many of whom seemed determined to come to us whether or not a place could be made for them.

In February 1932, the school rounded out its fifty-first year and graduated its forty-ninth class of students, 118 in number, the largest group ever graduated in any one year. This class was admitted in 1929 in two sections. The February group numbered 90, and the September group 102, a total of 192 students. Of that number, sixty-one per cent. have successfully completed training. At the time of their admission the country was at a high peak of prosperity and conditions of employment and opportunity were such as apparently justified the enrollment of this large group of students, especially in view of the excellent nursing education and clinical experience which our school is in a position to offer.

Today, however, with the changed economic condition we all realize that there must be a decided slowing down of nurse production. Naturally, such a program shapes itself somewhat slowly.

In order to improve the present serious unemployment situation among the graduate nurse group on the Registry, every attempt is being made to increase and popularize group nursing in the recently opened new Semi-Private Pavilion for patients of moderate means. Even in less than three months this form of nursing has attained a high degree of popularity among patients, doctors and nurses.

A report published by the Committee on Grading of Schools of Nursing less than a month ago, states that during the past year in this country over two hundred hospitals, large and small, have closed their schools of nursing, and that hundreds of other schools have radically reduced the number of their admissions, supplementing the nursing service of the hospital by the use of graduate nurses and nurse helpers.

Throughout the entire country, the present trend of hospitals everywhere is to reduce the number of student nurse admissions. This step is made necessary by the serious amount of unemployment existing among graduate nurses, which gives every evidence of disastrous increase. In 1931, approximately 30,000 student nurses were graduated, and 88,000 more remained in schools of nursing.

While in certain ways the past year has been a quiet and rather uneventful one, this was undoubtedly due in part to the fact that progressive or experimental endeavor was greatly restricted by the existing financial depression. The bedside nursing service of the Hospital during the past year has been made more difficult by the fact that most of the adult patients admitted were not only very ill, but generally also very much discouraged.

I am happy to state that with the census of the school at the highest peak in its history, a daily average of 343 students, the daily average number of students off duty because of illness has been the lowest reached in years, averaging only five daily, which number also includes convalescent periods.

One fact which has undoubtedly contributed to this excellent result is that more and more, due to medical supervision in public schools, infected tonsils and adenoids are being removed, which results in better resistance to colds and minor illnesses on the part of students admitted to the school. Our physical director maintains that the improved health record is due to the fact that the students are realizing more fully the importance of definite health standards and requirements. Whatever the cause may be, we are glad that the burden of sick students has not fallen quite so heavily as usual on the physicians and surgeons, who give so many valuable hours of time and thought to their care. On behalf of the Board, I wish to express its gratitude and appreciation to Drs. Kessel, Beck, Cohen, Maybaum, Zeman, Eliasoph, and the many others who have given so much assistance in maintaining the health and physical welfare of our student nurse group. We also wish to express our thanks to the Director of the Hospital, Dr. Joseph Turner, for his cooperation and help at all times.

Naturally, the educational work of the school has increased proportionately with its increased group of students. The educational director reports 4,600 hours of class room instruction given during the past year, which figure is exclusive of all ward and clinic practice instruction. Over seventy per cent. of such class work was conducted by nine full-time instructors. A tribute is certainly due to the educational staff for their excellent work, and also to all others who participated in this program, especially the little group of physicians who still continue to give volunteer lecture service. Notable in this group is Dr. Henry Berg, who for more than twenty-five consecutive years has given instruction in contagion and infection.

A number of important changes have occurred in the graduate nurse staff during the past year. Miss Maude Lyle, Assistant Superintendent of Nurses, resigned March 1st, to accept a position elsewhere. The vacancy thus created was filled June 1st by the appointment of Miss Helen Hansen, one of the graduates of our own school, class of 1921. Miss Hansen holds her Master's degree from the University of California, and since graduation has held various responsible executive positions, such as instructor, superintendent of nurses, and inspector of schools of nursing in California.

In the instructors' group, Miss Irene Watt was appointed to replace Miss Lucy Harris, and Miss Marion Furness and Miss Harriett Bullard, as assistant instructors of nursing practice.

On December 1st, Mrs. Helen Pittman, Night Supervisor, resigned and Miss Margaret Lundy was appointed to fill the vacancy, a position for which her previous experience as head nurse and supervisor had well qualified her.

REPORT OF SCHOOL OF NURSING

Toward the end of November, 1931, the new Semi-Private Pavilion for patients of moderate means was opened, and Miss Edith Ryan, formerly Surgical Supervisor, was placed in charge—a responsible position for which Miss Ryan was most admirably fitted. Miss Louise Oosting, Assistant Practical Instructor, was advanced to the position of Surgical Supervisor.

A new position was created October 1st in the School of Nursing. I am happy to announce the appointment of Miss Clare Casey, R.N. B.S., as Teaching Supervisor on Hospital wards. There is a great need of more actual bedside teaching of the student nurse group, and it is hoped that in time we may have a teaching supervisor on each pavilion where ward patients are cared for.

The Alumnae Association, now numbering over 700 members, reports that as a whole they have had a satisfactory year, although one that has been decidedly burdened and greatly affected by the existing economic conditions.

The same fact prevails in connection with our Nurses' Registry, on which a daily average of 361 graduate nurses of our own school are registered for private duty nursing. In connection with the Registry it is interesting to note that 31 of the 361 registered nurse members are so-called "honorary members," which means that they register without the annual payment of dues, a concession and courtesy granted them by the Board in recognition of thirty years or more of nursing service.

During the past year, 5847 calls for nurses to care for private patients have been received in the Registry, more than 1,000 less than the number received in 1930, and 1,800 less than in 1929. This year it was possible to fill practically all of these calls from our own Registry, whereas in other years from 1,000 to 1,800 calls have been filled by nurses called from outside registries.

Not only has the number of calls for special nurses diminished, during the past year, but the period of time that such nurses were retained on cases has been definitely shortened. Apparently too, many more persons are being cared for in their own homes this year. The number of calls for nurses from outside the Hospital has been steadily mounting, totalling this year over 1,000 calls, about one-sixth of the entire number.

Many social and recreational activities have been enjoyed by the students throughout the year. Dances, class day exercises, special parties, concerts and theatre parties have all been included, which in many cases were made possible through the generosity and kindness of members of the Board and friends of the Hospital. All extra-curricular activities have been in charge of the Physical Director, and the special social committee of the faculty, with the never-failing and efficient help of Miss Addie Wood, our Supervising Dietitian.

During the past year our school has faced many difficult and unusual problems, because of the economic stress and strain. It is during such times as these that the value, loyalty and stability of our splendid group of nursing representatives on the staff and faculty of the school makes itself felt. On behalf of the Board, I wish to express our deep appreciation of their valued services. We wish especially to pay a timely tribute to our Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Elizabeth A. Greener, who has served so ably and well in that capacity for the past eighteen years.

HUGO BLUMENTHAL,

*President of The Mount Sinai Hospital

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:
Gentlemen:

Any crisis, such as the present economic depression with its great toll of unemployment, must have its effect on hospital social work. Many of those, who formerly were able to take care of themselves, are now deprived of their means of support, and cannot meet the additional needs which may be imposed upon them through illness. Families, who previously assisted aged parents, or invalid brothers and sisters, have been forced to discontinue their aid, leaving these more or less helpless people to shift for themselves, causing much hardship and placing more responsibility upon us. Inability to find work, and financial worries are attended by their unhappiness and friction within the family. A general lowering of standards of living (overcrowding, an indifference regarding home, personal appearance and health) is becoming more apparent from day to day.

We are now giving medical relief to many families who previously were self supporting, but are unable to cope with their present situation. We verify these cases through the Social Service Exchange where families are reported "not known," or known only to the Emergency Work Bureau, or some other agency established during the present crisis. So many emergency cases now claim the social workers' attention that regular routine work is constantly interrupted, making intelligent planning very difficult.

The family welfare agencies have been overwhelmed with new applicants and the situation regarding the work and relief bureaus has been so kaleidoscopic, changing almost from day to day, that we have found it exceedingly difficult and time consuming to keep up with new developments. In our work with children, particularly in malnutrition cases, the relief carried on through the schools has been of considerable assistance. We have referred many children to the school principals and in nearly all cases they have supplied our young clients with extra nourishment, school lunches, shoes, or whatever else was needed in the particular case.

We have endeavored to stand by our patients, helping them to carry on until we were able to refer them to some organization which provided at least for their minimum needs. Unfortunately we were not successful in receiving aid for all our clients, which has made this year a most trying and discouraging one for the social workers.

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

We have felt keenly the loss of Mrs. Fred S. Mandelbaum who had been a member of our Board ever since it was organized. She had given a great deal of time and had been most helpful in the work of the department. She will long be remembered for her untiring interest in the welfare of our patients.

Mrs. Edwin M. Friedlander tendered her resignation from the Board, which was accepted with regret.

Thirteen workers resigned during the year. Two of them were with us only a few months. The reasons for the changes were as follows: Two were ill; one married; six accepted other positions; four were not satisfactory. It was not nearly as difficult as in previous years to fill these vacancies, as we had many very desirable applicants, but the breaking in of so many new workers is a very long and arduous task.

Our statistics show that we opened 1,246 less new cases than last year. Several factors are responsible for this decreased number. It takes some time for a new worker to learn to evaluate her work according to the standards which we have adopted. The Thrombo-Angiitis Obliterans Clinic was without a worker from September on and the Mental Health Class was short a worker for over three months. The temporary closing of the Tuberculosis Clinic was an additional reason for the reduction of the intake of new cases.

There were 9,015 new cases taken under care, but this figure gives no indication of the number of contacts we have had with patients not made "cases," and the amount of time spent with other organizations in discussing the undertaking of case work responsibilities. A more accurate picture of the increased amount of work done by the department in 1931, is obtained by looking at the services rendered, which have increased considerably. There were 4,961 more interviews held and 1,309 more home visits made than in 1930. The reports sent to cooperating agencies answering inquiries regarding their clients were 7,130, an increase of 2,432. These reports represent considerable effort on the part of our workers.

The poliomyelitis epidemic curtailed our summer activities to a great extent, but notwithstanding this, 658 children, 46 adolescent boys and girls and 47 mothers were sent to the country. The special summer work with asthma children, which was begun two years ago, was continued this summer, when we again sent children to the farm in Milford, Connecticut, from July 1st to September 1st. These cases are being followed by the doctors in the clinic and are under close supervision of the social worker in the home. Four of the children have been practically symptom free and the condition of the others has improved.

The providing of free convalescent care, particularly for male patients, has been quite a problem. Many convalescent homes, that formerly accepted free convalescent cases, have been unable to do so this winter and it was impossible for us to pay for all those who needed convalescent care. Many patients, for whom we could not obtain accommodations in convalescent homes, had to be sent home where unfavorable conditions were not conducive to a rapid recovery. This made closer home supervision necessary and added to the duties of the social worker. There were 231 fewer patients sent to convalescent homes this year than the previous year.

With the present unemployment situation, the number of handicapped persons placed in employment was naturally small; whereas in 1930 we were able to place 207, this year we placed only 172.

A survey of the activities during the past year shows very few changes. The Tuberculosis Clinic was discontinued temporarily in December, 1931. All medical histories were transferred to the Jefferson Clinic of the Board of Health; all social histories being retained for our own files. We transferred one of the social workers to another department. The second worker, who divided her time between the Tuberculosis Clinic and Adult Cardiac Clinic, was transferred to the Thrombo-Angiitis Obliterans Clinic on January 1st, 1932. The latter clinic does not warrant a full time social worker at present, as the most difficult problem connected with the clinic is securing employment, which under the existing conditions is practically impossible.

We were unable to continue the salary of the kindergartner, Mrs. Werner who, however, is now very generously acting in the capacity of a volunteer, and we are most grateful to her. The therapeutic kindergarten was discontinued in June, 1931, because of the opening of a larger number of low ungraded classes in the Public Schools; it was felt that the small number of children, who were not enrolled in these classes, did not warrant the expense of this kindergarten.

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

In November a special clinic session was set aside for the little victims of poliomyelitis epidemic. The orthopedic worker is present at this clinic session. The follow-up work, however, is carried on by the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children.

Through the cooperation of Dr. Harry A. Goldberg, we obtained necessary dental care for a number of school children in the Dental Clinic of the Hospital, so that they could be sent to the country during the summer.

With the able assistance of the head of the Dietetic Department, we have been able to give our families specific instructions in the buying and preparing of well balanced meals. The Social Service Auxiliary distributed 296 bags of food during the holiday season. We were greatly assisted by Miss Wood, who purchased the articles and, with the help of her staff, filled the bags for distribution.

The aim of the case adviser has been for better case work and record keeping, improved inter-department relationship as well as better relationship between our department and outside agencies.

There has been a marked improvement in the recording of cases. In several of the clinics the workers are recording long time supervision and full study and treatment cases according to outlines, stressing form and the factual content of the record. At the present time a minimum outline for recording all cases on which social service examinations have been given, is under consideration by a selected group of workers. It is hoped that an outline suitable for use by all workers will be evolved shortly. At the first of the year, a card for recording limited service and short time supervision cases was put into use. This card system has facilitated recording and has brought about greater accuracy and uniformity.

Staff education, which was inaugurated in 1930, as an experiment, has been continued under the direction of Mrs. Elsa Butler Grove. This is a new venture in Hospital Social Service.

Following is Mrs. Grove's report:

"For a staff education program the most strategic aspect is the selection of staff participants. This year, five young women with varying educational backgrounds (four nurses and one lay worker) were chosen. Last year's experience had indicated the desirability of selecting candidates with adequate scholastic preparation to profit from teaching which would be posited upon the premise of self direction in reading, and in application of principles learned in conference upon the total case load carried by each worker. In addition, a certain flexibility of mental outlook was found to be essential since staff education is still an uncharted pedagogical area requiring cooperation between pupil and teacher to experiment with content and method.

"The plan followed to date (October, 1931 to February, 1932) has been to assign to each participant one tutorial lesson of one and a half hours per week; to organize one group conference (one and a half hours) per week. There is a weekly reading or study allotment of two hours per week, distributed over current periodicals, or books along the line of particular interest of each member. This seems a wiser method of assignment because the members come from different clinics or wards in the Hospital and are baffled by particularistic forms of social entanglements of their patients.

"There is a certain contrast between the total case load carried by a worker and the cases selected for intensive tutorial spade work; the attempt is made to find a case upon which a worker may concentrate in order to develop her working knowledge of case work theory. Yet medical social work must in its essence be different from other types of social work, since the equation between patient and hospital (doctor) conditions the procedures followed—so the worker must constantly ask herself, 'What does this health relationship call for in the way of social direction?' Of course certain things always remain constant, such as the use of extramural agencies (convalescent homes, relief agencies, etc.) and case work technique (letter writing, interviews, etc.).

"Record writing is an art . . . workers always know infinitely more than the brief histories kept indicate; at one end of the scale would be the temptation to record every word spoken by a patient, and at the other a telegram recording the need of some immediate service, such as 'rent in arrears,' 'lack of food.' Somewhere between these two extremes must be the answer to a good medical social record. Each member is earnestly trying to find the answer for her case load.

"Each member of the group has kept a diary to observe how her time has been distributed. This has shown the necessity of striking a balance between work done within the clinic or ward, and at office detail (record and letter writing, clerical work, telephoning) and home visits. Without such an evaluation of time budgets, the amount of time spent in the field would be slighted because of the heavy inroads upon each worker's time made by the detail of intramural work. Yet the doctor wishes above all else to link his medical care with the home conditions, and so field visits must be expanded rather than curtailed.

"So far the fact that there has been no set program for staff education makes the voyage of teaching social service fascinating. If the student staff worker can learn to set the proper limits to her social service responsibilities, then the goal of her period of instruction will have been achieved."

EDUCATIONAL PLAN

First year—8 months—32 weeks

1½ hours tutorial instruction	48 hours
1½ hours group instruction	48 hours
3 hours reading, under direction of instructor	96 hours
1 hour weekly staff discussion	32 hours

Total, 224 hours

(In terms of university measurement about 5 hours' academic units.)

We are very appreciative of the valuable services which our corps of volunteers has rendered. Seventy-one volunteers have held 79 positions so that several volunteers have had two duties. More volunteers returned to us this year than ever before, and a larger number remained with us during the summer months. This fall we decided to make a slight change in the organization of the volunteers. Captains were appointed to keep in close touch with the volunteers and to report to the chairman of volunteers any problems which may arise.

We have once more been able to make distributions of clothing without drawing on our own funds. The various sewing groups and individuals through their continued interest and generosity have made this possible. We extend our sincerest thanks to them as well as to the Needlework Guild of America, which again sent us a splendid donation.

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

We are indebted to the following speakers for the interesting lectures given to our student nurses:

Mrs. Mabel Keaton Staupers, Executive Secretary, Harlem Tuberculosis and Health Committee

Dr. Ira S. Wile, Associate Pediatrician, Mount Sinai Hospital

Dr. Frederic M. Thrasher, New York University

Mr. A. Goldfeld, Supervisor of The Lavanburg Homes

Miss Grace L. Anderson, Director, East Harlem Nursing and Health Service

Miss Goldye Rosenberg, Home Economist, Jewish Social Service Association

Mrs. Rachel M. Israel, Superintendent, Solomon and Betty Loeb Memorial Home

Miss Florence M. Johnson, Director of Nursing Service, American Red Cross, New York Chapter

Mrs. Mabel H. Earle, The Equitable Life Assurance Society

Mrs. Elsa Butler Grove, Lecturer on Social Service, Teachers College, and Staff Educator, Mount Sinai Hospital Social Service Department.

We wish to express our appreciation to the many community agencies which have cooperated with us and rendered valuable assistance in making satisfactory adjustments for our patients. We also thank the administrative staff of the Hospital, who have given us valuable advice, as well as the School of Nursing and the physicians and surgeons of the Hospital for their helpful cooperation.

We owe much to our staff for the support they have given in meeting and overcoming obstacles. Their loyalty and unselfish devotion to the work makes for progressive achievement.

The members of the Board of the Social Service Auxiliary have as in past years, demonstrated their interest and desire to aid in the development of the department.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH M. COOK,

President of the Social Service Auxiliary

THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL LADIES' AUXILIARY SOCIETY

OFFICERS

MRS. LEOPOLD BERNHEIMER	PRESIDENT
MRS. OSCAR ROSE	TREASURER
MRS. JOSEPH A. ARNOLD	SECRETARY

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:
Gentlemen:

It is perhaps difficult to appreciate that a year has already passed since my last report to you, and it again becomes my pleasure to lay before you the activities of our society and the work consummated by its members. There is perhaps little of interest that I can say to you, other than that we have continued along the lines laid out for us.

Our members seem to be greatly interested in the preparation of the surgical dressings, so much needed by the Hospital, even going so far as to take much of this work to their homes.

It is with a feeling of sadness that we must record the passing away of two of our directresses, Mrs. David Weil and Mrs. S. J. Levi, both of whom gave much of their effort and interest to the furtherance of our work.

May I express the hope that another year may find us continuing our efforts and progressing in the good work that we are trying to accomplish.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. LEOPOLD BERNHEIMER,

President.

Extracts from the Constitution on Endowed Beds and Endowments

- A Contribution of $2,500.00 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Life Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge.
- A Contribution of $3,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Memorial Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by the said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal. In the event of such successor being appointed, the rights hereinbefore mentioned shall continue for a period of not over fifty years from the date of such contribution—such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor.
- A Contribution of $5,000 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed in the Children's Pavilion. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the wards of the Children's Pavilion, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament or by any other instrument under seal.
- A Contribution of $7,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed, but where, under the provision of any will executed prior to March 20, 1921, the sum of $5,000 or more is bequeathed to the Hospital in payment of any Perpetual Bed, the Board of Trustees may, at their option, accept such sum in payment of such Perpetual Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal.
- When a corporation is the donor, the privilege shall expire at the end of twenty-five years from the date of such contribution.
- Tablets to commemorate the endowment of Life and Memorial Beds shall be placed in the ward selected by the donor, subject to the rules of the Hospital. Tablets for Life Beds shall be maintained during the life of the donor, tablets for Memorial Beds for a period not beyond fifty years from the date of their endowment, such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor. The endowment of a Perpetual Bed shall entitle the donor, or his legal representative, to have a tablet placed in the ward selected by him, or by them, or to have the endowment recorded on a tablet provided for that purpose in the corridor of the Hospital; such tablets shall be maintained in perpetuity.
- A donor may change a Life Bed endowed by him or her to a Memorial Bed by making an additional contribution of $1,000, or to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $5,000, or may change a Memorial Bed to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $4,000.
- No patient shall occupy a Life, Memorial or Perpetual Bed unless he shall comply with the current rules of the Hospital and be a proper subject for treatment according to its regulations.
- An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no funds shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The Mount Sinai Hospital was organized and incorporated in 1852 for "benevolent, charitable and scientific purposes." The work of the Hospital was begun in a small private dwelling on 28th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, which accommodated 28 patients. The Hospital now has accommodations for 736 patients, not including 18 beds in the receiving ward.

In 1871 the Hospital completed and occupied, at Lexington Avenue, 66th and 67th Streets, a building having a capacity of 200 beds.

The Dispensary, now known as the Out-Patient Department, was inaugurated in 1872.

The clinical departments first organized were those of medicine and surgery; a gynecologist was appointed in 1877.

Mount Sinai created precedents among the hospitals of New York by setting up a distinct pediatric service in 1878 and an otologic service in 1879; the latter was at first combined with, but in 1910 was separated from, ophthalmology and laryngology.

The Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses, in affiliation with the Hospital, was incorporated in March, 1881; the name of the school was changed in 1923 to The Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing.

In 1883 a committee was formed to develop a Medical Library.

In 1886 a district medical service was inaugurated.

Provision for the care of private patients was first made in 1886; an intermediate or "semi-private" ward was opened in 1904.

In 1893 a Pathological Department was established, and consultants in dermatology and neurology were appointed.

The corner stone of the group of ten hospital buildings occupying the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues, 100th and 101st Streets, was laid May 22nd, 1901; the buildings were completed and occupied March 15th, 1904, when 500 beds became available for the care of the sick.

A Department of Dietetics was established in 1905.

A Social Service Department was inaugurated in 1906.

A Tuberculosis Clinic was organized in 1908.

HISTORICAL NOTE

The first of a series of "Fellowship" funds was created in 1908 to assist investigators engaged in scientific medical work.

The Hospital's first X-ray machine was installed in 1900. In 1910 a full-fledged Department of Radiology was formed and in 1924 the department was subdivided into separate branches for (a) radiography and (b) X-ray and radium therapy.

In 1910 the three-story Out-Patient Building, which had been completed in 1904 was altered to a five-story building, and the Nurses' Home was enlarged from a six-story to an eight-story building. At the same time new isolation wards were erected on the roof of the Medical Building.

A Dental Department was established for the benefit of in-patients in 1910; this work was extended to the Out-Patient Department in 1925.

An orthopedic surgeon and a physio-therapist were named in 1911.

Roof wards for outdoor treatment were erected on the Medical and Surgical Pavilions in 1912.

The Hospital in 1912 accepted a fund "for the advancement of preventive medicine." A "health class" for children was promptly established.

In 1913 the erection of seven additional buildings south of 100th Street was begun; four of these buildings were occupied in 1915, and three, namely, the Private Pavilion, the Children's Pavilion and the Auditorium, were completed in the spring of 1922. With these additions, the Hospital was able to care for 654 patients.

The first of a series of lectureship funds was established in 1913. These funds provided honoraria for distinguished visiting lecturers.

Electro-cardiography was instituted in 1915.

In 1917, Mount Sinai Hospital became a constituent member of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, which was organized in that year.

Until 1917, tonsillectomies were performed in the Dispensary, often without anesthesia; in the year mentioned, a "tonsil and adenoid" ward, with a fully equipped operating room, was opened.

A Mount Sinai Hospital Unit, organized as a section of the Medical Department of the United States Army, was sent to France in 1918.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Post-Graduate medical instruction was formally organized in 1923, in affiliation with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

A permanent fund for the support of medical research was inaugurated in 1925, prior to which research was precariously supported by occasional donations.

The construction of a new school and residence building for the School of Nursing, fronting on 98th Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, was begun in 1925 and completed in 1927; the residence accommodates 490 nurses.

The new Semi-Private Pavilion for the care of patients of moderate means was completed and opened to the public in 1931.

Group or cooperative special nursing was introduced for the first time.

A Consultation Service for ambulant out-patients of moderate means was organized in 1931.

The first stage of the Out-Patient Department alteration was completed in 1931, when the former Nurses' Home was converted into an annex to the Out-Patient Department. The second stage was begun in 1932, when the main Out-Patient Department was closed for alterations.

Neuro-surgery was included in General Surgery until 1932, when a separate service was created.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Prevailing economic conditions made it an urgent duty of the Board of Trustees to husband resources as much as possible in order to avoid running into a difficult financial situation.

In strenuous times like the present the demand for free treatment naturally increases considerably, while the number of those who are able to pay for medical and hospital care diminishes proportionately. We were fortunately able to assist the Department of Hospitals of the City by taking care of many patients for whom there was no room in the municipal institutions, and the compensation granted by the City for this service has been of great help to us although it was at a rate considerably below cost.

The number of patients treated in the Hospital in 1932 was 14,237 against 12,659 in 1931; patients in the Private Pavilion numbered 1,704 against 2,087 during the previous year; consultations in the Out-Patient Department were 224,200 against 236,234 in 1931.

The Semi-Private Pavilion, opened in November, 1931, has been popular since the beginning of its existence; the two floors which thus far have been thrown open to public use have been constantly occupied to the limit of their capacity. We are gratified to have been able to give this service at low rates, particularly at a time when the cost of rooms in the Private Pavilion, where service should not be given at a price involving a loss to the Hospital, is beyond the means of many persons anxious to pay their way when in need of Hospital care. Group nursing, an innovation, was introduced into the Semi-Private Pavilion at greatly lower cost to the patients.

The consultation pay or flat-rate clinic for patients of moderate income, which was opened at about the same time as the Semi-Private Pavilion, has also proven itself to be a great boon to the community; ample and growing support by the medical fraternity is sufficient evidence of both the quality of the service rendered and of the economic need for it.

In making the changes in the Lehman Dispensary necessary to combine it with the old and rearranged Training School Building for a larger Out-Patient Department we have encountered unforeseen difficulties which caused both delay and expense. It was found that the original foundations of the dispensary had not been put on solid ground and that as a consequence thereof the building had begun to settle, endangering the structure. This defect has now been remedied and we expect to be able to put the reconstructed building into active operation in the early part of next year.

The expenditures for current purposes of the Hospital, including the School of Nursing, the Social Service Department and the Ladies' Auxiliary in 1932, amounted to..... $1,582,415.02
 Receipts applicable to current expenditures were.... 1,521,645.13

Leaving a deficit of.....	$60,769.89

Included in above receipts are the following:

From Federation for The Mount Sinai Hospital Group	$422,478.00
From the United Hospital Fund.....	44,968.85
From the City of New York.....	174,364.14

Among the lectures given in the Hospital during 1932 by men outstanding in their profession were the following:

Professor Doctor Ludwig Pick, Honorary Professor of Pathological Anatomy at the University of Berlin: The Edward Gamaliel Janeway Lectures and a lecture on "Zum Ursprung der Grawitz-Tumoren der Niere" and on "Atypical Amyloidosis."

Lectures in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of Dr. Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacillus, by Dr. Edgar Mayer, Medical Director of the N.V.A. Sanatorium and Northwoods Sanatorium, Saranac Lake, and by Dr. Howard Lilienthal, Consulting Surgeon to the Hospital.

A lecture by Professor Joseph Jadassohn, Professor of Dermatology at the University of Breslau.

A lecture by Professor Julius Bauer, Professor of Medicine, University of Vienna.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The Hospital once more took an important part in the Graduate Fortnight of the Academy of Medicine and the contribution of the Hospital has been acknowledged in very laudatory communications from the officers of the Academy.

Interest in the weekly Pathological Conferences in the Blumenthal Auditorium continues unabated; apparently these conferences add much to the reputation of the Hospital in the medical world.

During the past year, the Hospital made its first important change in many years in the organization of its surgical services by creating a service for neuro-surgery. Neuro-surgery is a branch of surgery which is so distinct from general surgery that for many years this work was delegated to a few men specially interested and experienced in the subject. The demand for specialized treatment in this branch of surgery has reached proportions which justified the creation of an autonomous department, and accordingly the Hospital has established a Neuro-Surgical Service with Dr. Ira Cohen at its head.

During the past year death has laid a heavy hand on the Hospital:

Mr. Fred H. Greenebaum, a Trustee since 1928, passed away quite suddenly. In his death we have lost an exceptionally valuable Trustee who in the short time of his connection with the institution had become conversant with all its ramifications and at the time of his demise he was justly regarded as one of the most efficient and active members of the Board.

Death removed from our midst Dr. Sidney Yankauer after thirty-eight years, and Dr. Leo Kessel after twenty-six years of service. Dr. Yankauer and Dr. Kessel had achieved enviable records in their respective fields and were held in great respect by their profession. To the Hospital they rendered great service, and they have left a fine example of devotion and loyalty to their co-workers and to those who will follow them.

We also record with deep regret the demise of Dr. Thomas L. Bennett, who had been connected with the institution as Anesthetist since 1924, and of Dr. Eugene Klein, Adjunct Surgeon since 1918.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The following appointments have been made on the Medical staff:

Dr. Kaufman Schlivek.....Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Hospital
Dr. Isadore Goldstein.....Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Hospital
Dr. Rudolph Kramer.....Laryngologist to the Hospital
Dr. Ira Cohen.....Neuro-Surgeon to the Hospital
Dr. Moses Keschner.....Associate Neurologist
Dr. Henry Minsky.....Associate Ophthalmic Surgeon
Dr. Ralph Colp.....Associate Surgeon
Dr. Arthur M. Fishberg.....Associate in Medicine
Dr. Samuel H. Averbuck.....Adjunct Physician
Dr. Solon S. Bernstein.....Adjunct Physician
Dr. Joseph Levine.....Adjunct Ophthalmic Surgeon
Dr. Abraham Kaplan.....Adjunct Neuro-Surgeon
Dr. John H. Garlock.....Adjunct Surgeon
Dr. Herbert M. Klein....Adjunct Physician to Isolation Service

Dr. Julius Wolff, Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Hospital since 1907, having reached the age limit, was appointed Consulting Ophthalmic Surgeon, thus retaining his valuable services for the benefit of the Hospital and its patients.

Dr. E. D. Friedman, connected with the Hospital since 1920 as Associate Neurologist, and Dr. Mervin C. Myerson, connected since 1925 as Associate Laryngologist, resigned from their positions. We deeply regret that Dr. Friedman and Dr. Myerson felt unable to continue their activities in the Hospital and we take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation of the excellent service given by them for so many years.

Dr. Louis Hausman, Adjunct Neurologist; Dr. Herbert W. Emsheimer, Adjunct Physician to the Isolation Service; and Dr. Samuel Hirshfeld, Adjunct Surgeon, also felt compelled to withdraw from the Hospital, and we desire to record our thanks for their devotion to the institution while on its staff.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

During the past five years Mrs. S. S. We gratefully acknowledge this very generous assistance given by Mrs. Prince.

Mrs. Lionel Sutro has again made it possible to continue the research on "The Etiology of Arterio-sclerosis," under the direction of the Medical Service, by renewing the "Lionel and Florentine Scholle Sutro Fellowship" of $2,000.00 for one year.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

We cannot repeat too often that the financial situation of the Hospital is precarious. Deficits such as we have encountered the last three years are of a serious nature and until some large benefactions shall accrue to the Hospital, any thought of extending its activities, no matter how necessary or important the project may seem, must remain an idle dream.

Working under unprecedented difficulties, Federation has succeeded in raising an amount sufficient to cover the budget adopted early in 1932. This is a result which its most optimistic friends would hardly have dared to predict, and we join our thanks to those which the entire community owes to Messrs. Paul Felix Warburg, Ira M. Younker, Waldemar Kops, and S. D. Leidesdorf, who were so active in the Federation campaign.

From the United Hospital Fund we received $44,968.85. In thanking the managers of the fund we extend to them our congratulations on the result of their collection during this most difficult period and we appeal to our friends to give the United Hospital Fund all possible support.

Mr. Alfred Lowenthal has continued to render good service as photographer.

With satisfaction and appreciation we report the continued, devoted interest of our Medical staff; of the School of Nursing; the Social Service Department; the Ladies' Auxiliary and the workers in and supporters of our Out-Patient Department, whose reports form part of this annual record. To all of them we express our sincere gratitude for their cooperation.

The devoted attitude and painstaking work to which the members of the executive staff of the Hospital and all its employees have accustomed us in the past remain unchanged, and recognition of the services rendered is most heartily given here.

Our very friendly relations with the City authorities remain unchanged and their helpful cooperation is one of Mount Sinai's assets.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,

President.

Testimonial to Mr. George Blumenthal to Commemorate Completion of 40 Years of Actual Hospital Service

On the evening of October 6th, 1932, a testimonial dinner was tendered by the Board of Trustees to Mr. George Blumenthal, President of the Hospital, to commemorate the completion by him of forty years of active service as Director and Trustee, and twenty-one years as President. During this period, which covered the transfer of the Hospital from 67th to 100th Street, the expansion and multiplication of its clinical and laboratory services, and its broad development as a research and educational institution, Mr. Blumenthal played a leading part in shaping the policies of the Hospital and made many important contributions to its welfare. Besides serving in the capacities named above, he acted as Secretary and as Vice-President for a number of years.

Mr. James Speyer acted as Chairman and Toastmaster at the testimonial dinner. The speakers, Mr. Leo Arnstein, Vice-President, Dr. Isidore Friesner, President of the Medical Board, Judge Joseph M. Proskauer, President of the Federation, Judge William N. Cohen and Dr. S. S. Goldwater, paid warm tributes to Mr. Blumenthal, testifying to his tireless and devoted personal service to the Hospital, to the wide range and social significance of his public interests, and to the generous manner in which he had supported them. On behalf of the Board, Mr. Arthur H. Harlow, Secretary, presented Mr. Blumenthal with a memorial book signed by all the Trustees, showing the growth of the Hospital since 1892.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF FRED H. GREENEBAUM

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Mount Sinai Hospital, held on November 29th, 1932, announcement having been made of the death of Mr. Fred H. Greenebaum, it was resolved to express the sentiments of the Board in the following minute:

"With deep sorrow we record the death of our associate, Fred H. Greenebaum, for five years a member of this Board, and a devoted friend of The Mount Sinai Hospital.

"His membership upon many of the most important committees of the Board is a demonstration of the multiplicity of his activities and the generosity with which he gave his time and effort, gladly answering every call to the service of the Hospital. His energy, sound judgment and enthusiastic devotion marked him as an invaluable servant of our institution, and the results of his effective work in its behalf will be felt and remembered in time to come.

"By his never-failing gentle and kindly spirit and his intense loyalty to every cause which he undertook, Mr. Greenebaum endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact; and to our sense of loss to our institution is added our own personal sorrow in the passing of a dear friend.

"To his bereaved family we express our heartfelt sympathy."

In recognition of his services we direct that the flag of the Hospital be flown at half-mast, and that an engrossed copy hereof be sent to his family.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

ARTHUR H. HARLOW,
Secretary.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF DR. LEO KESSEL

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Mount Sinai Hospital, announcement having been made of the death, on December 5th, 1932, of Dr. Leo Kessel, the members present decided to express their sentiments in the following minute:

"Dr. Kessel had been connected with The Mount Sinai Hospital, where he originally served as intern, since his graduation in 1905. During the many years of his connection with the Hospital, he had by the charm of his personality endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact, and by his outstanding ability, through which he rose to be Physician to the Hospital in 1928, he gained for himself an enviable reputation in the field of medicine, reflecting honor and glory on the Hospital, whose progress was always one of the motivating ambitions of his life.

"We feel that in his untimely end, not only the Hospital, but we as individual members of the Board of Trustees, have sustained a personal and irreparable loss, and wish to express to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy."

It was resolved that an engrossed copy of this resolution be presented to the family of the deceased, and that the flag of the Hospital be flown at half-mast until after the funeral.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

ARTHUR H. HARLOW,
Secretary.

DR. SIDNEY YANKAUER

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Mount Sinai Hospital, the Trustees recorded their sentiments in the following minute about the death of Dr. Sidney Yankauer, who was a member of our staff for over thirty years. A copy thereof was sent to his family.

"We have heard with profound regret of the death of Dr. Sidney Yankauer, who was a member of our staff for over thirty years.

"During all these years he gave devoted service to the institution and its patients, introducing the most modern methods in the treatment of diseases of the ear, nose and throat.

"His many original contributions to his specialty, and his devising of instruments therefor, won him an enviable position in the medical profession, while his fine character and humanitarian impulses won for him the love of his fellow men.

"It will indeed be difficult to replace so valuable a worker in the cause of humanity, and the Trustees, many of whom were well acquainted with him and had learned to honor and respect him, feel that in his death they have suffered a personal loss."

To his bereaved family we extend our sincerest sympathy in the great loss which they have sustained.

GEORGE BLUMENTHAL,
President.

ARTHUR H. HARLOW,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE MEDICAL STAFF FOR THE YEAR 1932

The past year has seen no diminution in the clinical activities of the staff; in fact, several services report a definite increase.

The following lectures of general medical interest were delivered during 1932:

The Edward Gamaliel Janeway Lectures, by Professor Doctor Ludwig Pick, Honorary Professor of Pathological Anatomy at the University of Berlin, on:

"Clinical Aspects and Pathological Anatomy of Diseases of Lipoid Metabolism."

"Aseptic Bone Necrosis and Its Role in Clinical Surgery."

Professor Doctor Ludwig Pick also delivered lectures on:

"Zum Ursprung der Grawitz-Tumoren der Niere."

"Atypical Amyloidosis."

Lectures in Commemoration of the Discovery of the Tubercle Bacillus.

Dr. Edgar Mayer, Medical Director of the N.V.A. Sanatorium and Northwoods Sanatorium, Saranac Lake, N. Y., on:

"Eulogy of Robert Koch."

"Critical Review of Preventive and Therapeutic Measures since Koch."

Dr. Howard Lilienthal, Consulting Surgeon to The Mount Sinai Hospital, on:

"Operative Aid in Tuberculosis of the Lung."

Professor Joseph Jadassohn, Professor of Dermatology at the University of Breslau, on:

"Tuberculides and Tuberculosis of the Skin."

Professor Julius Bauer, Professor of Medicine, University of Vienna, on:

"The Pathogenesis of Endogenous Obesity."

The important role played by the Laboratories, as far as Hospital activities are concerned, has been maintained in the current year. Despite the financial stringency there has been an appreciable increase in what may be called diagnostic reports from the Laboratories.

In cooperation with the surgical division, studies in the treatment of suppurative diseases of the bronchi and lungs have been continued. Based upon past experiences, the early surgical treatment of lung abscess has been tried and the good results obtained have confirmed the highest expectations. The clinical study of carcinoma of the lung has also been pursued with special reference to its surgical treatment. Based on these studies, an attempt has been made to differentiate the various types of cancer of the lung with particular reference to their operability, and several patients suffering from this disease have been subjected to operation. The surgical treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis which requires the closest cooperation between medical, surgical and allied services, has gradually been extended.

The work of the Medical Out-Patient Department has functioned very smoothly during the past year. The reorganization of the medical services in the Out-Patient Department, and particularly the close cooperation between the Hospital and Out-Patient Department services, offers much in the way of better care for dispensary patients and greater stimulus to the staff engaged in the Out-Patient Department service.

On the pediatric service many avenues of investigation have been followed. Among them have been studies in asthma; of eczema in infants; on the improvement in the treatment of infants suffering with intestinal intoxication; also on the normal histology of infants' brains, blood antitoxin content in children with negative Schick reaction, basal metabolism of normal children, measles prophylaxis, etc.

On the dermatological service, the increased pathological investigation which characterized the activity of the service in the previous year has been continued. Progress has been made in the venom treatment of various dermatoses and especially in allergic diseases.

Some of the important contributions from the surgical services have been a definite reduction in the mortality of acute appendicitis by the individualization of cases and the use of certain technical methods. Recognition, too, of certain unusual types of empyema with special technic for their treatment has borne good results.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

Studies in the diagnosis and operative treatment of acute phlebitis complicated by general septic invasion, secondary to local infections particularly in the extremities, have been continued. A new chemical for excretion urography has been developed which has proven very satisfactory. A study has also been made of blood stream infections following urological diseases and operations, which has thrown considerable light on these complications. One of the largest series of kidney tumor cases has been reported from this Hospital.

In conjunction with the chest service, the surgery of acute lung abscess has been developed, and the classification of cancer of the lung, particularly with regard to the operability of such lesions, holds a promise of aid for these sufferers.

The results in the medical and surgical treatment of goitre cases have been further improved by the close cooperation of the members of the groups studying these cases. A joint follow-up clinic, attended by both staffs, has contributed much to the clinical evaluation of the end results in this group of cases.

Although the neuro-surgical service as a separate entity dates back only from the middle of November, the work of the service seems to be increasing in volume. The new arrangement adds considerable to the training of the resident in neurology by giving him an opportunity to observe while assisting at the operating table.

In addition to its clinical activities, the gynecological service in its research laboratory has been extremely active in the pursuit of its many problems. Several new operations in this field have been developed and perfected.

On the ophthalmological service, several new operations have been devised, particularly plastic repairs of the orbit and the lids. Investigations are being made in glaucoma, pseudo-neuritis, control of retinal hemorrhage, diabetes, vernal catarrh, etc.

The last year has seen a considerable increase in the work of the otological service on the wards. In addition to this, publications are being made regularly as a result of laboratory investigations.

The reorganization of the laryngological service is now in progress. Despite the diminished staff during the current year, however, the service has continued its usual activity.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF

A comparison of the annual reports for 1931 and 1932 reveals a definite decrease in the number of patients examined during the latter year. In the second six months of the year there were about 3,000 less films made than in the preceding year. This purposeful reduction by the staff has perhaps a salutary effect, for instead of using the easier way there has been a return to the state in which sound clinical sense coupled with common sense is of prime importance in determining the status of patients under our care.

With regard to the consultation service, it is of interest to realize that up to date the service has examined over a thousand patients and that more than five per cent. of all the physicians living within a radius of fifty miles of the Hospital have referred patients to the service.

ISIDORE FRIESNER, M.D.,
President of the Medical Board.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

The difficulties in conducting the Out-Patient Department, already trying because of the demand for medical service from a larger number of patients unable to pay for medical care, were increased in the past year when the old Out-Patient Department building was closed in the spring in order to carry out needed repairs and alterations. To carry on the service during this period, it was necessary to house the clinics temporarily in crowded, make-shift quarters in the former Nurses' Home and in an old building originally planned as a laboratory. Temporary offices for admitting, accounting and records were set up in sections recently rebuilt for other purposes. Space prepared for special follow-up clinics was temporarily converted into examination and treatment rooms. Discarded screens, doors, partitions and obsolete equipment were redrafted into use to meet this emergency. An earlier renovation, about twenty years ago, was accomplished only by closing the Out-Patient Department and transferring ambulant patients elsewhere; to have done likewise in 1932 would have been disastrous to the many sick poor now dependent on the Out-Patient Department for medical care.

That this needed care was carried out at all under these tribulations was due entirely to the fine spirit of service shown by the medical, volunteer and clerical staffs. Their willing and cheerful cooperation under the most trying working conditions cannot be mentioned without expressing at the same time the heartfelt thanks of the Committee for their invaluable services.

Despite these drawbacks and limitations of space, the volume of Out-Patient Department service showed very little diminution, for 37,149 new patients were admitted during the year. Including consultations with patients registered in years prior to 1932, a total of 224,200 visits were made, about five per cent. under the 236,234 visits made in 1931. These calculations do not include visits made to the X-Ray, Radiotherapy, Basal Metabolism, Electrocardiograph, Follow-Up and Children's Health Departments, which if included, would swell the total number of visits in 1932 to more than 256,000. A complete résumé will be found in the statistical section of the Annual Report beginning on page 66.

Interesting as these details of Out-Patient Department service may be, the value of the medical and educational services rendered to the public in the Out-Patient Department cannot be reflected completely by statistical tabulations alone. The quality of the clinical services cannot be reduced to common numerical denominators for purposes of report. That it is of recognized value may be assumed by the large number of return visits made by patients and by the constant and increasing requests for admission to the clinic from patients referred by friends, relatives and local relief agencies. Unfortunately, many of these were and continue to be rejected because of lack of room.

Some have come from social agencies in the community who, lacking medical facilities, ask not only for medical care for their sick clientele, which is rendered willingly, but also for straight health examinations. While admittedly a forward looking step, health examination service could not be undertaken for a number of reasons. One is that the pressure upon the Out-Patient Department service compelled the adoption of a policy of limitation of the number of admissions in order to ensure a reasonable amount of time and degree of attention to each admitted patient. At times, as many as 100 patients in need of dispensary care have been turned away in one day in order that justice might be done to those who were admitted. Another reason is that the medical staff of the dispensary is, with some exceptions, a voluntary group and demands upon them for service could not be increased indefinitely. The clinic and the staff are unable to satisfy all of these requests for various forms of medical cooperation, particularly those related to service with individuals presumably well. For these reasons, the Out-Patient Department has been compelled to adopt as an administrative policy, the exclusion of auxiliary service to well individuals in order that the work with the sick, to which it is chiefly dedicated, might be carried forward properly.

To describe fully the clinical aspects of the year's work would require more space than is available. A few clinics have therefore been selected for brief comment:

EYE CLINIC. The Principal change in the Eye Service was the consolidation of the routine eye work into the afternoon clinics. All refraction work was concentrated in the morning hours, patients being referred to them for this purpose from the afternoon clinics. The staff schedules and functions were recast, resulting in a coordination of the In- and Out-Patients' services. The entire eye staff now serves both groups of patients simultaneously, first seeing the clinic patients in the early afternoon, and the Hospital patients after the clinic closes.

ASTHMA CLINIC. Increased medical interest in the study and treatment of asthma was evidenced by the increase of the staff from four to seven physicians. In addition to routine work, the clinic collaborated with other clinics in investigations in gastrointestinal allergy, idiopathic pulmonary bleeding, a new method of treatment of poison ivy (about which a preliminary report has been published), allergic manifestations of the common cold, tobacco sensitiveness in thrombo-angiitis obliterans and bacterial allergy.

CARDIAC CLINIC. After moving to the temporary quarters, the Cardiac Clinic sessions were scheduled for morning hours, the adult group examining from 30 to 40 patients per session and the children's group from 15 to 30. A critical review of the work of the clinic by the local heart association resulted in a rating of ninety-five per cent. The staff continued its investigation on the therapeutic effect of calcium on heart diseases and collaborated in the investigation of the life history of the rheumatic cardiac child.

DIABETIC CLINIC. The average attendance was between 40 and 50 patients at each session. More than 200 new patients were received during the year. The per capita use of insulin remained unchanged. The many problems associated with diabetes have been changed during the past few years because of the introduction and effectiveness of insulin. Deaths from coma and acidosis are almost unknown, and clinical attention is now directed to the study of vascular disease, which is now the most common cause for death in diabetes. Careful records are now being prepared on the vascular system of each patient. The eye complications in diabetes are being carefully studied by an Ophthalmologist present at each clinic session. The relationship between gall-bladder disease and diabetes is being handled as an individual problem. The extension of educational facilities, cooking classes, etc., was deferred until the new quarters are ready for the clinic.

The Children's diabetic clinic added eight children to its list. No deaths have occurred, in fact, there has not been a single death of a diabetic child under clinical care since the clinic was begun in the summer of 1927. At the present time the staff is engaged in a study of the cause and prevention of atrophy of the subcutaneous fat tissue which occurs around the site of insulin injections. The study has been in progress for several months and will be continued for a longer period before the results will be evaluated. The growth and development statistics have been brought up to date in preparation for a series of articles dealing on all phases of childhood diabetes.

GASTRO-INTESTINAL CLINIC. Studies of the incidence and significance of true achlorhydria have been prepared for publication; other studies dealing with the mechanism of pain in peptic ulcer and with the disease complications of peptic oesophagitis have been completed and will be published shortly. Other work carried on by the clinic staff includes studies in physiologic secretion in ulcer before and after operation, with particular reference to partial gastrectomy and as a basis for a new therapy of peptic ulcer, using a continuous alkalinized milk drip into the stomach. Work is also under way in an evaluation of the injection treatment of internal hemorrhoids. The staff has introduced the use of the mercury weighted tube in the treatment of cardiospasm.

OTO-LARYNGOLOGICAL CLINIC. The clinic has undertaken the follow-up treatment of patients discharged from the Hospital following ethmoidectomy based on the experience of the staff that the post-operative treatment of these cases is of importance equal to that of the operation. It is expected that this post-operative treatment will reduce the number of failures heretofore charged to the operation. The clinic staff collaborated with the staff of the asthma clinic in the study of sinuses in asthma and in studies of nasal allergy. Other problems include studies of the relationship of the sphenoidal sinus disease to menopausal symptoms and the oto-laryngological aspects of disease of the central nervous system.

CHILDREN'S HEALTH CLASS. The weekly sessions devoted to special problems of children continued with members of the staff contributing many articles to the professional, social and lay press. Addresses were given before many meetings to audiences interested in a description of this comparatively new type of preventive medicine.

GYNCOLOGICAL CLINIC. The work of the special subdivisions of the gynecological clinic has been touched on in previous reports. Additional work was carried out in the past year to test the efficacy of endocrine therapy on functional bleeding; the results as yet are inconclusive. Similar studies on the treatment of menopause symptoms have led to no definite conclusions. An evaluation of a number of methods in treating trichimonas infections is under way. The studies of dyspareunia have resulted in the publication of an article on its classification and treatment. The studies in the Out-Patient Department of the venom treatment of functional bleeding have progressed to a point where the work warrants publication. The Follow-Up Clinic was conducted as vigorously as before in spite of the difficulties due to the inadequacy of the temporary quarters. The clinic is now attended by more than sixty-five per cent. of all patients discharged from the gynecological service in the Hospital.

Work on the alterations, already referred to, was begun on May 1st, and constituted another stage of the construction and improvement program formulated in 1928. The changes represent considerably more than an alteration, for they include new construction to provide additional space for facilities which the dispensary could not accommodate, and to provide new means of easy access and communication between the dispensary building and the ward buildings of the Hospital.

The new construction includes the following:

1. A two-story drug department on the site formerly occupied by the ambulance garage. The space occupied by the old drug department will be used in part to increase the waiting room facilities and in part to provide space for a new central record room for out-patients.
2. A covered passageway between the reception ward and the first floor of the Out-Patient Department with a separate stairway providing direct access to the Out-Patient Department from the main floor of the Hospital, and an ambulance entrance permitting patients to pass under cover from ambulance to reception ward.
3. A fireproof vault for the storage of explosive, inflammable drugs.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON OUT-PATIENT DEPARTMENT

4. A bridge connecting the upper floors of the Out-Patient Department and medical buildings, and permitting direct communication at an upper level between all of the buildings in the main Hospital group and the new house staff quarters and out-patient clinics.

5. An outside stairway in the courtyard providing a second means of exit in emergency.

Within the Out-Patient Department building a number of new facilities have been provided, including the following, affecting all clinics:

1. The central Out-Patient Department record room previously referred to, with a mechanical conveyor for the transportation of records to and from the clinic floors, and clinical record stations in the corridors of each floor.

2. A new freight elevator to serve the lower floors of the Out-Patient Department and drug department, and separate and faster passenger elevator service for clinics.

3. Rooms for dietary instruction to clinic patients.

In addition, the first floor will be altered to house the offices, record rooms, waiting rooms and medical classification offices. For the latter purpose three examining rooms will be provided. The ceiling of the waiting room will be treated acoustically with sound deadening material. The Out-Patient Department record room will be connected by a short passage with the Hospital's central record room in the adjoining building. For dispensing of prescriptions the new drug department will open directly into the patients' waiting room.

The second floor will be given over to surgery, orthopedics and thrombo-angiitis obliterans. Tiled operating, sterilizing and recovery rooms are provided for the surgical clinics. A plaster room is provided for the orthopedic clinic.

On the third floor, the improved facilities and equipment for the ear, nose and throat clinic, include flush rim dental cuspidors, acoustical ceiling treatment, dark rooms, air under pressure and vacuum, and other auxiliaries. The urology rooms are planned in a flexible manner, in order to permit the admission of female patients in case the character of this service should warrant a change in the future. A separate venereal room with treatment sinks has also been provided. The gynecological clinic has been enlarged with improved facilities for privacy and service, including adequate toilet and dressing rooms, history cubicles and a small laboratory.

The medical clinics occupy the entire fourth floor with an office, fluoroscopy room, twenty-two history and examining cubicles, a large laboratory for clinical microscopy, and dietetic class rooms.

The fifth floor will be shared by the eye and skin clinics. The eye clinic has been enlarged with additional dark, examining and treatment rooms. The skin clinic is arranged for future X-ray and physical therapy services. Separate facilities for salvarsan therapy and a small laboratory and operating room for biopsies will be provided.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON LABORATORIES

ROUTINE:

In spite of the decrease in the budget and the tendency to scrutinize activities more critically because of the current financial situation, the Laboratories have rendered considerable and useful service during the year 1932. The diagnostic reports, one of the important phases in laboratory work, have included all the newer methods which are considered to afford additional diagnostic service to the clinician. These were divided as follows:

Surgical Pathology	3,261	3,240
Postmortem Examinations	473	583

RESEARCH:

During 1932, 88 problems were brought to completion; of these 62 were published, the remainder being in the hands of publishers. This represents an increase over 1931 (78 completed problems) and is due to the use of more efficient methods and wider cooperation among staff members. Cognizance is being taken of this work in many scientific centers throughout the world. Forty-six articles have already appeared from investigators elsewhere, largely concerned with corroborating and extending our work on the Schwartzman phenomenon. As evidence of its importance is the scheduling of a symposium on the Schwartzman phenomenon at the International Congress of Microbiologists in Berlin in 1934. A number of centers are beginning to use the Schwartzman method for the preparation of sera and encouraging reports have been published on the use of antimeningococcus sera in 93 cases in which it is stated that the serum thus prepared appears to be appreciably better than any hitherto supplied to physicians.

* Does not include examinations made within individual clinics.

At this point it is fitting to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mrs. S. S. Prince for her continued support over a number of years which has encouraged us all and aided us greatly in doing the work.

Occasional reports have come to hand supporting the observations on hemorrhagic diseases reported last year. Work is now under way in which it appears likely that a method of standardizing the treatment of these diseases on a scientific basis will be established, which should be of practical import to clinicians. Among the studies published during the year 1932 will be found articles on a newly discovered chemical for intravenous urography which seems to be a forward step in this field and should make this diagnostic procedure available to more clinicians.

Articles have been published from the chemical laboratory showing for the first time that the optical rotation properties of certain drugs determine their pharmacological properties and, in many respects, their chemical affinities. This has been a moot problem amongst scientists and is considered a useful discovery. Some of this work has already been confirmed elsewhere. A number of other papers have appeared from the chemical department dealing with new tests on the function of the liver, a field which is receiving increasing attention today by clinicians. In line with these are studies on the chemistry of bile salts, soon to be arranged for publication in monograph form.

During the year, work was carried out in the Out-Patient Department on tobacco sensitivity in patients suffering from thrombo-angiitis obliterans. An article was published in which it was shown for the first time that patients suffering from this disease show hypersensitive phenomena to tobacco. The work was carefully done and has already been confirmed. It is too early to discuss the possible significance of these observations but they appear to be of value.

Another contribution to immunology is a paper dealing with a sensitive and critical method of eliciting hypersensitive reactions in animals. This opens up a new field of investigation which it is hoped may lead to practical results. Still another discovery is the work done on eczema in infants and children. The workers have shown that the methods used formerly to determine the cause of eczema were unreliable. A method was devised which has cleared up a number of obscure cases and on the basis of which the children were treated and cures obtained. The work on rheumatic fever, which has been carried on for a number of years is now being marshalled together with the object of publication in monograph form.

Twelve exhibits were contributed by the laboratory staff to the Fifth Annual Graduate Fortnight of the New York Academy of Medicine. Particularly interesting was the contribution by the neuro-pathology staff which prepared a large number of moulages of various tumors of the central nervous system, the cost of which was defrayed by a special fund obtained by the New York Academy of Medicine for this purpose. The moulages were helpful in demonstrating to visiting physicians the topographic relations and clinical significance of tumors of the central nervous system.

TEACHING:

Teaching was carried out on a larger scale than heretofore. Valuable additions to our teaching facilities were the extension of the museum and the enlargement of the collection of lantern slides illustrating the pathology of many important diseases. Six months' training in neuro-pathology was added to the service of incoming residents in neurology. The neuro-pathology laboratory teaching facilities were extended to more men than before. This department has been made available for study to most of the staff members in the department of neurology.

The Clinical Pathological Conferences, post-graduate courses, lectures given by staff members and other intramural group teaching have given fresh evidences that the Laboratories are extending their sphere of usefulness to an increasing number of physicians, both here and in other institutions. Letters are received constantly from physicians throughout the country inquiring about post-graduate training in the Laboratories. There are at present on the staff seven workers who are acting as pathologists in other institutions as well as five others who are receiving training with this in view.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON LABORATORIES

The Laboratories are also concerned with testing supplies (milk, water, etc.), standardization and preparation of some drugs and pharmaceuticals. They have helped introduce into the Hospital the use of less costly drugs and have also undertaken the preparation at less cost of several items previously purchased. Constant attention is being paid to the introduction of simplified techniques for preparing media and economies in the handling of all supplies. With this advance in activities the needs for the Laboratories continue to grow, emphasizing the need for more space.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE B. BERNHEIM,

Chairman, Committee on Laboratories.

REPORT OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL SCHOOL OF NURSING

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:
Gentlemen:

The end of the year 1932 brought to a close the fifty-second year in the history of The Mount Sinai Hospital School of Nursing. On February 2nd, 1933, the Annual Commencement Exercises of the school were held in the Blumenthal Auditorium, at which time 98 student nurses, the fiftieth class to graduate, received their diplomas and will soon leave the school to join the ranks of more than 2,000 other Mount Sinai nurses who have graduated since the founding of the school in 1881.

During the past year, the total daily average attendance of the school has been 327 students. Of this number, 287 were student nurses and 40 probationers.

In accordance with the generally accepted policy prevailing today, the size of the school is being slowly but definitely reduced, because of over-production and unemployment in the nursing field. The necessary readjustments are being made gradually.

We continue to have an exceptionally large and well-qualified list of applicants for admission to the school. During the past year approximately six thousand letters of inquiry and application were received, from which number 172 students were selected for admission to the school. Of this group, only 104 remain at present. These figures clearly indicate the reduction in the size of the school is being affected through the elimination of students who fail to measure up to a high standard of efficiency, personality, and scholarship, rather than by holding down the number of admissions.

Sixty per cent. of the enrolled students are at all times engaged in bedside nursing work in the wards of the Hospital, and in the Private and Semi-Private Pavilions. Twenty-five per cent. are located in special departments, such as the Out-Patient Department, the Operating Rooms, and Diet Kitchen or in elective or affiliated service. Fifteen per cent. are off duty because of illness, leave of absence, vacation or other causes. Our largest affiliated service is that in connection with Sloane Maternity Hospital, where at all times we maintain an average of 21 students. Special elective courses are maintained in connection with Willard Parker Hospital, Bloomingdale Hospital, and in our own Social Service Department.

The continued large size of the school necessitated 7,425 hours of class instruction during the year. Seventy per cent. of this heavy teaching program was covered by our seven full-time resident instructors.

To complete so heavy a program within the school year required skillful planning and fine cooperation on the part of the instructors, of the Hospital nursing staff, and of the medical teaching group. We wish to express our appreciation of their splendid spirit of cooperation and helpfulness.

Every possible attempt is being made to emphasize and improve our teaching program in the wards, which are so rich in clinical material. Through the development of this program our Hospital has almost unlimited opportunity to better the education of the nurse and give added security and safety to the patient. We feel that there is no surer way to prevent errors and improve nursing practice. Clinical teaching in the wards, which stresses nursing needs suggested by the direct study of disease, assists the student to make the right approach to patients, and impresses upon her the importance of self-reliance and conscientious effort.

We are hoping that as the nursing service of the Hospital gains strength and stability through the increased use of graduate nurses, it may also be found possible to institute a pre-arranged plan of rotation of the student through the various clinical services in such a way as to develop a wider range of experience, with better results. The more these various modern interpretations of nursing instruction are applied, the better qualified will be the product of our school to deal intelligently with the needs of the community, and to work helpfully with the medical profession and other agencies in their vast health programs for the general welfare of mankind. Such a program calls for broad vision, keen interest, and great understanding on the part of all on whom rests the responsibility for the education of the student nurse.

A number of our head nurses have taken part-time courses at Teachers' College during the past year, to better prepare themselves for the responsibilities of their positions; others have taken purely cultural subjects which are always of value and interest.

There have been many important changes in the personnel of the faculty of the school during the past year. The vacancy created by the resignation of the Assistant Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Helen Hansen, which occurred last August, was filled by the appointment of Miss Clare Casey, a graduate of this school, and also of the Department of Nursing, Teachers' College.

In June, after eight years of most excellent service in the capacity of Practical Instructor, Miss Elizabeth Goodine, presented her resignation in order to take post-graduate work at McGill University, Montreal, Canada. This vacancy was filled by the appointment of Mrs. Mary Pursley, a graduate of the school who had formerly served with us as assistant instructor for several years and later had valuable teaching experience in other organizations.

Early in June, Miss Mary Kenney, the Senior Instructor in the Educational Department, resigned because of her recent marriage. Miss Kenney had done an excellent piece of work in this department and we sought a successor for this important position, finally deciding that we had just the right person in Miss Lilian Leeson, a graduate of Harper Hospital, Detroit, Michigan, and also of the University of Michigan, who has had a splendid background of successful teaching experience in nursing schools. She taught also in the Junior College of Grand Rapids, Michigan, in connection with the Central School of Nursing maintained by the hospitals of that city.

It became necessary in June to consider the replacement of two supervisors, Miss Louise Oosting in the Surgical Department, who was resigning to be married, and Miss Augusta Pfrommer, who asked for an extended leave of absence on account of illness. The vacancy in the Surgical Department was filled by the appointment of Miss Mary Cryer, and that in the Medical Department by Miss Marie Mourer, both graduates of our school, and nurses of exceptionally high standing. Many changes have also occurred in the head nurse group, all of which have been satisfactorily filled.

A generous, but anonymous friend of the Hospital made it possible through the past winter for us to supplement our nursing force by the addition of 17 general duty graduate nurses, a most welcome and valuable addition to the nursing force of the Hospital.

The health of the student body has been excellent, as a whole, although in January last year, and again this year, we had a mild epidemic of flu, grippe, tonsillitis and colds. For several weeks from 20 to 30 nurses were off duty ill, a fact which quickly made itself felt in the wards of the Hospital. The daily average of nurses off duty through illness was nine. This figure includes days of convalescence in the Nurses' Home or elsewhere.

During the past year, tragedy and sorrow visited our school, when on April 8th one of our young student nurses, Miss Miriam Clune, just entering on her second year of training, died after an illness of only a few hours, of fulminating meningitis. A young life, ended while in the discharge of duty and in the service of others, is a tragic occurrence at all times, but doubly so under such circumstances.

The past two years have been disturbed, difficult ones because of the world-wide economic stress and depression. We hope that soon the long looked for "turn of the tide" may occur which will carry us back to normal, happy, successful times. As we review the events of these two years, we realize how great has been the effort of the friends and supporters of our school, and we express to them, especially to Mr. George Blumenthal, the President of the Hospital Board, to the Board of the Hospital, and to Dr. Turner, our Director, our appreciation and gratitude for their support and assistance at all times. To the many members of the Medical Staff and Board, who have helped carry our school safely through the past year, we also express our appreciation and thanks, especially to our school physicians, Dr. Eliasoph and Dr. Zeman.

On the 29th of November last, the Hospital and school were shocked by the sudden death of Dr. Leo Kessel, a member of the Medical Committee of the School of Nursing, and consultant to the school. In his passing the school lost a loyal and understanding friend, one who had given freely and generously of his skill, wisdom and knowledge; one who held a close and unique place in the hearts of all his associates; one whose place it will be difficult to fill.

We have most reluctantly been obliged to accept the resignation of Dr. Ira Cohen, the surgeon of the school, after ten years of devoted service, for which we are most grateful. Dr. Percy Klingenstein has been appointed to fill this vacancy.

REPORT OF SCHOOL OF NURSING

During the past year, the resignation of Mr. Albert Stern, for many years a member of the Board of the School of Nursing, was accepted with sincere regret. Dr. S. S. Goldwater, for the past two years consultant to the School of Nursing, was appointed to this vacancy.

A special committee has recently been appointed to be known as The Committee of Nursing Standards and Education, for the purpose of studying the nursing situation as a whole, and planning suitable policies for the future of the school. This committee is composed of Mr. Paul Rosenthal, Chairman; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, Dr. David Beck, Dr. Ralph Colp; the President of the Board of the School of Nursing, ex officio; the Director of the Hospital and the Superintendent of the school.

On December 30th, Dr. Harry Wessler was appointed by the Medical Board to fill the vacancy created by the death of Dr. Leo Kessel, on the Medical Committee of the School of Nursing.

It is now something over a year since our Semi-Private Pavilion, for patients of moderate means, was opened together with our Department of Group Nursing. This experiment, starting with high hopes on the part of some, and deep anxiety on the part of others, has proved to be a great success. The service has been popular with patients, with patients' families, with the doctors (who in many cases had been a little doubtful about such service) and extremely satisfactory to the nurses themselves. It has been possible for us to maintain a group of from 16 to 22 nurses daily in connection with this work, and our experience leads us to believe that there will always be a good supply of excellent nurses available for this desirable type of nursing service.

Undoubtedly, much of the credit for the success of this plan should be attributed to Miss Edith Ryan, the Supervisor of the Semi-Private Pavilion, who has been untiring in her efforts to popularize the service with patients, their families, and the doctors.

The Alumnae Association of the School of Nursing, with nearly 800 members, continues to thrive and to increase both in size and good work. Its splendid work in connection with unemployment conditions and needs, and its spirit of cooperation and helpfulness to needy members through a difficult year, will long be remembered by all concerned.

REPORT OF SCHOOL OF NURSING

The report of the Registry shows a daily average of 351 nurses, graduates of this school, enrolled for private duty nursing. About 5,100 calls were received during the past year, practically all of which were filled from our own list. The report for this year differs very little from last year's figures, and remains considerably below normal.

The program for the extra-curricular activities of the school, largely under the direction of the Physical Director, has included many recreational projects and social activities, among which were special large and small parties, and dances. The usual Class Day program was put on by the Graduating Class, and there have been many concert and theatre parties, frequently made possible by the kind thought and generosity of the Board or friends of the school. As usual, Miss Wood, our Supervising Dietitian, and her staff, have never failed to understand our needs and to cooperate to the fullest extent.

Personally, and on behalf of the Board, I wish to extend appreciative thanks to our most efficient Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Elizabeth A. Greener, to the members of the faculty and the Graduate Nurse Staff, and to pay high tribute to their unfailing loyalty, cooperation, and splendid spirit. The success of the school, its fine spirit, its happiness and good cheer, are largely attributable to their splendid leadership and efforts.

HUGO BLUMENTHAL,

*President of The Mount Sinai Hospital

REPORT OF THE SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:
Gentlemen:

The growth of the Social Service Department during the years prior to the depression was a rapid one although we were unable to place social workers in all the departments where the physicians felt the need for our services. Last year when we were faced with budgetary cuts and the necessity for retrenchments, much thought was given to the existing organization, and to the value of the work of each department. This report shows a slight curtailment in our activities, but we think we are steadily gaining a deeper insight into the needs of our patients, thus enabling us to help them, as well as the Hospital, the physicians and the community more effectively.

Longer experience shows that from the administrative point of view, case supervision is one of the greatest needs in our department and that our organization can be strengthened considerably if one person devoted full time to this function.

During the summer we had only one relief worker instead of the three we had in previous years. This made it necessary for the workers to relieve one another, making the work during the summer months unusually heavy, with the result that our intake of new cases had to be somewhat curtailed.

The early part of the year the workers in the Adult Out-Patient Department moved into the new offices specially designed for social service in the Out-Patient Department Annex. Formerly these workers, attached to the Medical Clinics, Department "L", Orthopedic Clinic, Mental Health Class and Adult Cardiac Clinic, had very inadequate quarters in the various clinics or occupied desks in the corridors near the clinics. Now individual cubicles, each with a desk and telephone, provide the privacy necessary for a satisfactory interview between the patient and social worker. A separate entrance from the street enables the clients to have direct access to the workers at any time without the necessity of being passed by the admitting officer, or of interfering with clinic routine. Since we are installed in our new offices, the workers are not tempted to perform services which are the functions of the personnel of other departments. At first the workers felt that fewer cases would be referred to them because of their absence from the clinics, but the physicians have accustomed themselves to the new arrangement, and send for the social workers whenever necessary. It may be found necessary as soon as the building alterations in the dispensary are completed to provide desk space for social workers in the different clinics for use during clinic sessions. The Conference Room has been used extensively for meetings and by the staff educator who conducts her work there. The new rest room is a great convenience, and contributes considerably to the comfort of the workers.

Our statistics show that we began the year with 4,314 cases and that we opened 7,754 cases during the year and closed 7,814, leaving a total case load of 4,254 cases on December 31. Our interviews rose to 11,676 over last year, 289 more field visits were made, and we referred 148 more patients for convalescent care and 743 more clients to other agencies. The cases, which have come under our care, presented much more difficult problems than usual, taking more of the workers' time and personal service than ever before. It is interesting to note that with few exceptions the new "full study" cases in most departments presented a family group which hitherto had been self maintaining, independent and able to cope with its difficulties until the continued pressure of lowered earnings and an advancing or new illness made the need of direction by someone outside the family group essential. Much more relief than ordinarily had to be given patients for emergent, non-medical situations, pending the investigation and final decision of the welfare agencies.

Our summer work was again conducted with the closest cooperation of Dr. Sidney D. Leader, who has so kindly assisted us for the past three years. We began to register children early in the season, and classified them according to their physical condition: Group I, the children poorly nourished and developed; Group II, less marked; and Group III, children in fair or good condition. The classifications were made as a result of complete physical examinations, supplemented by the weight and height records of these children. Defects recognized at the time of examination were noted and the children were referred to the indicated clinic for correction of such conditions. Most of Group I, many of Group II, and only a few of Group III children were given vacations. In several instances children were sent away because of social problems, rather than because of physical debility. Of the 1,236 children registered for summer vacations, we were able to send 713 for an average period of two weeks; 146 children remained away from three to eleven weeks.

Through the generosity of Mrs. Breitenbach, the Max J. Breitenbach Memorial Cottage at the United Vacation Home in Long Branch, New Jersey, was put at our disposal, giving us the opportunity to take care of 109 mothers and their babies. This is one more instance of the support Mrs. Breitenbach has given to our work for many years.

Mrs. Elsa Butler Grove continued to give part time to staff education. She had four workers for intensive teaching. Each of the five workers, who studied with her last year, conferred with her twice a month. Our staff meetings continued to be valuable and interesting under Mrs. Grove's guidance, but they have been different in content and method from other years. There is less microscopic emphasis in case work theory and there is more appreciation of the direct relationship between family life and the economic order; less emphasis upon social procedure and more emphasis upon social interpretation.

The problems of our chronic patients have given us more concern than ever before, as fewer could be cared for at home, and many had to be transferred to the crowded city hospitals, pending other dispositions. There has been an increase in the number of homeless men and women for whom some plan had to be made upon discharge from the Hospital. Those, who were eligible for convalescent care, could, for the most part, be cared for. But many of these were not eligible on account of slight dressings, casts, diets and other special needs. Frequently, we had to pay for their maintenance as they could not be sent to free lodging houses.

The most pressing problem in our work with children has been an increasing number of cases of malnutrition. The physicians refer case after case to us for extra nourishment or convalescent care. They realize, however, that the problem is a larger one than a Medical Social Service Department can cope with alone, as it involves the basic problems of adequate relief. Children are sent away for convalescent care; they come back improved, but generally the improvement lasts for only a short time as they are returned to the same deplorable home conditions. A survey of active cases in one month in the Children's Clinics showed that approximately seventy-five out of one hundred families were receiving full support from some relief agency. The workers find that the standards of living are getting lower, homes are becoming more crowded, frequently there is no light except oil lamps or candles; often there is no heat, so that in several instances we had to furnish coal stoves and pay gas bills. The constant fear of eviction is causing much mental anguish.

There is a need for more beds in tuberculosis sanatoria as well as in preventoria. The prolonged delay before admission is hazardous for other members of the family as well as for the patient.

In the Children's Asthma Clinic it will be readily understood that the economic factors hamper the work greatly; such recommendations as environmental change for an individual asthmatic child or his entire family, have not fallen on willing ears, so far as relief agencies are concerned; nor could the issue be pressed in view of the urgent primary needs of so many applicants.

Two children, chronic intractable asthmatics, have received no schooling this year. Another group has received little schooling due to frequent asthmatic attacks. The physician in charge of the clinic is continuing his efforts for adjustment of the school situation, and has again called to the attention of the authorities the need for visiting teachers for these children.

With the reopening of Irvington House the Children's Cardiac Clinic obtained more vacancies for convalescent girls, but the scarcity of places for boys is one of the difficulties with which the workers in this department have to contend.

The Adult Cardiac Clinic sessions are held in the morning instead of the afternoon, and one of the clinic sessions was discontinued. This has resulted in an increase of patients at each morning clinic. A major problem for the worker in this department is the need for adequate provision on a long time basis for single, homeless men and women suffering from cardiac disturbances, too young for homes for the aged, too incapacitated for permanent employment and not ill enough for homes for the incurable, or for hospitalization. Family welfare and relief agencies will not accept them, and again the city hospitals have been the only alternative.

The corrective exercise class for which we had the use of the Heckscher Foundation Gymnasium is now being conducted in the Orthopedic Clinic by Dr. Edgar W. Bick who very generously volunteered his services.

In the Mental Health Class it was found in many instances that in addition to the intra-psychic conflict, which is recognized as the fundamental basis for many of the maladjustments treated, the extra burden of economic difficulties produces severe strain upon the adjustment capacity of the patients. In normal times it is recognized that it requires all the efforts of the worker to assist in the adjustment of conflict. During the past year the economic factor has been so pressing in the majority of cases that it is almost impossible to treat them along orthodox psychiatric lines because the individual is so engrossed with the immediate threats to his physical security that he is not receptive to psychiatric approach alone. As a result, the environmental approach to the patient's problems has become, for the time being, of paramount importance. The division of labor in the clinic is such that it throws the environmental problems on the social worker to a greater degree than ever before. This automatically absorbs the major expenditure of time and effort on the part of the social worker, leaving little if any time for the performance of intensive psychiatric case work.

During the past few years the statement has been frequently made that economic stress per se has not effected an appreciable increase in mental disease so far as could be determined. This still holds true with some reservation. We have found a large increase in the number of patients who react to reality situations, such as financial worry and insecurity, with depressions and anxiety states. When their fears are alleviated there is almost spontaneous recovery so that the patients can continue to function independently of aid. This necessitates the services of the social worker in a direction, and to a degree, not previously required.

Notwithstanding the very cramped, inadequate, temporary quarters, the attendance of the occupational therapy class has been especially good, averaging about 9 patients per morning. At the request of the psychiatrists occupational therapy was given to 19 patients in the wards. The recreational work has continued with weekly meetings every Tuesday evening at the Henry Meinhard Memorial Health Center. One party given at the Hebrew Orphan Asylum was attended by over 100 patients from the Mental Health Class.

The Boys' Club in connection with the Children's Health Class was discontinued last June, but the need for this work is so great that we are contemplating starting it again. A similar activity is needed for the girls as most of the organized settlements have curtailed their work.

The cases referred to the workers attached to the medical clinics have increased considerably, particularly the limited service cases. Inability to pay for needed appliances or to provide special diets reveals the fact that the patients for whom adjustments have to be made have either a diminished income, or none at all. The problems most frequently encountered or only recently discovered are the following: insufficient food and ignorance of good values; inability to budget and plan with limited income; general debility cases with "neurotic" symptoms caused and aggravated by the financial and social changes of the depression. This last type of case is so prevalent and the adjustments so difficult or often so impossible to make, that clinic physicians have said that one-third of all the people in the clinics would profit more from a bank down-stairs than a drug room. The cooking class in connection with the Diabetic Clinic had to be discontinued temporarily because of building alterations.

In October, 1932 a thyroid group was added to the fourteen follow-up clinics which had already been organized. During the year 17,165 notifications to patients to attend follow-up clinics were sent. 11,736 visits to the clinics were made, giving an average attendance of sixty-eight per cent. 1,537 cases were closed. There were 1,446 referrals for examination or treatment to other clinics and 433 referrals for re-admission to the Hospital.

We are most grateful for the generous bequest of $2,500 which we received through the will of Mrs. Rebecca W. Von Inten. It has been particularly welcome this past year when the extent of the work accomplished was limited only by the amount of funds at our disposal.

It was with deep regret that we accepted the resignation of Mrs. Leon Weil who served on the Board of the Social Service Auxiliary for so many years and we are most happy to have her daughter, Mrs. Robert Benjamin, take her place. We also welcome Mrs. David M. Levy and Mrs. Frank L. Weil as new members of the Board. Some of the ladies of our Board are taking a more active interest in our case work this year, and come regularly to read the case records in order to familiarize themselves with the problems and discuss them with the workers. It is gratifying to note that the staff is much stimulated by these efforts, and has welcomed the constructive help which the Committee has been able to give them.

In this difficult year we are more than ever grateful to our volunteer workers. The high quality of the service they render and their regular and punctual attendance have been a fine example of loyalty and devotion.

We are again indebted to the various sewing groups, as well as the Needlework Guild of America for their generous donations. We also wish to express our appreciation to the many organizations which have collaborated with us in the care of our patients.

To Dr. Turner and his assistants, to the physicians and surgeons of the Hospital, to Miss Greener and her staff, and to Miss Slator and her co-workers in the Out-Patient Department, we feel greatly indebted for their assistance on many occasions.

The staff has been most loyal, and carried on during these trying times with splendid courage and devotion.

The members of the Board of the Social Service Auxiliary have fully realized the gravity of the crisis through which we are passing and have continued to show their unflagging interest in the work of the department to which they have given their generous support.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH M. COOK,

President of the Social Service Auxiliary.

THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL LADIES' AUXILIARY SOCIETY

OFFICERS

MRS. LEOPOLD BERNHEIMERPRESIDENT
MRS. OSCAR ROSETREASURER
MRS. JOSEPH A. ARNOLDSECRETARY

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL:

Gentlemen:

It is again my pleasure, after the passing of another year, to submit to you my report for the past twelve months. As I look back over the activities of this period, it is with a feeling of real pleasure that I recall the enthusiasm with which our members have continued the work of our society. The surgical dressings which they produced from week to week in ever-increasing quantities, I am sure were very needful and much appreciated.

It is again my sad duty to record the passing away of one of our oldest directresses, Mrs. Albert Friedlander, who for fifty years gave much of her time and interest to our society.

It is my hope that we may continue the good work and the next year find us all together again at our labors.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. LEOPOLD BERNHEIMER,

President.

Extracts from the Constitution on Endowed Beds and Endowments

- A Contribution of $2,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Life Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge.
- A Contribution of $3,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Memorial Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by the said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal. In the event of such successor being appointed, the rights hereinbefore mentioned shall continue for a period of not over fifty years from the date of such contribution—such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor.
- A Contribution of $5,000 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed in the Children's Pavilion. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the wards of the Children's Pavilion, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament or by any other instrument under seal.
- A Contribution of $7,500 to the General Fund of the Hospital, if accepted by the Board of Trustees, shall endow a Perpetual Bed, but where, under the provision of any will executed prior to March 20, 1921, the sum of $5,000 or more is bequeathed to the Hospital in payment of any Perpetual Bed, the Board of Trustees may, at their option, accept such sum in payment of such Perpetual Bed. Such contribution shall entitle the donor thereof, during his or her lifetime, to name a patient from time to time to use and occupy one bed in the general wards of the main Hospital, free of charge. Such donor may bequeath that right to a successor appointed by said donor in his or her last will and testament, or by any other instrument under seal.
- When a corporation is the donor, the privilege shall expire at the end of twenty-five years from the date of such contribution.
- Tablets to commemorate the endowment of Life and Memorial Beds shall be placed in the ward selected by the donor, subject to the rules of the Hospital. Tablets for Life Beds shall be maintained during the life of the donor, tablets for Memorial Beds for a period not beyond fifty years from the date of their endowment, such period, however, not to end before ten years from the death of the donor. The endowment of a Perpetual Bed shall entitle the donor, or his legal representative, to have a tablet placed in the ward selected by him, or by them, or to have the endowment recorded on a tablet provided for that purpose in the corridor of the Hospital; such tablets shall be maintained in perpetuity.
- A donor may change a Life Bed endowed by him or her to a Memorial Bed by making an additional contribution of $1,000, or to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $5,000, or may change a Memorial Bed to a Perpetual Bed by making an additional contribution of $4,000.
- No patient shall occupy a Life, Memorial or Perpetual Bed unless he shall comply with the current rules of the Hospital and be a proper subject for treatment according to its regulations.
- An endowment for the establishing of any special fund may be accepted by a resolution of the Board of Trustees. Such fund may be created either for a special purpose, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to such purpose only, or under the name of one or more persons, in which event the income therefrom shall be devoted to the general purposes of the Hospital. Such endowment funds shall be kept by the Treasurer as special accounts. Contributions to existing funds may be made at any time, but no funds shall be created with an initial endowment of less than Ten Thousand Dollars.
